DEACON ON TRIAL

For the Murder of M. Abeille.

He Tells the Story of His Domestic Troubles,

And Recites all the Interesting Events

Which Lead Up to the Fatal Scene.

He Killed the Frenchman Because He Ruined His Home and Forever Disgraced His Family—Evidence in Detail.

New York, May 20.—A dispatch from London says: After numerous delays the case of Edward Parker Deacon, the American who, on the 19th of February last, shot and killed M. Abeille whom be discovered in his wife's apartment at the Hotel Splendide at Cannes, was called for trial in the court of assizes in Alpes-Maritimes, near Nice, the criminal jurisdiction of the district.

Under the French law the jurors are chosen several days in advance of a trial by the drawing of lots, and in this case those selected are principally farmers living in the country round about Nice, and on the whole of something more than ordinary intelligence for that class.

The court house is narrow and cramped, having accommodations for less than 300 people. There are three counsel for the state, with M. Du Noiron, procurer of the republic, as chief prosecutor.

The defense is in the hands of one of the most eminent members of the French bar, M. Edgar Demange, a counselor of great eloquence and considerable skill in handling witnesses and in bringing out strong points in favor of his clients.

Two lawyers, including M. Clemenceau, are present on behalf of the Abeille family. Mrs. Deacon will not testify except through a sworn deposition, her absence being based upon ill health.

The defense will be justifiable homicide, together with the side allegations that Deacon had no intention of killing his wife's betrayer, and further that he was acting in what he regarded as self defense.

The general opinion is that the case will end in acquittal. The indictment simply charges manslaughter.

During the statement of the case the audience that thronged the court room listened with great interest. The court room does not accommodate many people. The whole population was excited over this event and if all Nice could have crowded into the court room very few people would have been elsewhere. Double ranks of soldiers restrained the crowd that would otherwise have prevented all ingress or egress, and the multitude who could not gain admission were pressed back into the adjacent streets. It was half past 9 when Mr. Deacon arrived at court and entered the prisoner's box. He was at once the object of scrutiny by the wives of officials, French and foreign, who had been admitted as a special privilege to the gallery. Although Mr. Deacon speaks French, yet in accord with custom when a foreigner is accused, an interpreter was sworn.

Mr. Deacon in reply to the court stated his own name and the names of his father and mother. He also stated the name of his wife and her immediate ancesters and added in answer to further and usual queries that he resided in Paris and had no profession. The selection of a jury was quickly disposed of. The prosecution objected to three of the persons empaneled who were consequently rejected and the defense objected to nine. The jury being completed the indictment substantially reciting the facts as before published, was read. The indictment closed with the averment that Deacon had confessed all to the police at the time of his arrest.

The first witness called was M. Dumoiron, procureur de la republique, who read a certificate of a physician excusing Mrs. Deacon from attendance. Questions and answers then ensued between M. Aubertin, the presiding judge, who was assisted by M. Thibault and M. Sicard, and Mr. Deacon. Judge Aubertin, after rehearsing all he knew of the case, said to Mr. Deacon: "Have you had any previous trouble with the police?"

Mr. Deacon, in a calm and dignified tone, replied: "No."

Judge Aubertin—"I hear that you like to drink whisky?"

Mr. Deacon—"I am no drunkard."

Judge Aubertin—"You are of hasty temper?"

Mr. Deacon—"I admit that I am."

Judge Aubertin—"You have property in Boston?"

Mr. Deacon—"Yes, I have property there worth about 30,000 francs."

Judge Aubertin—"Your wife has a large income?"

Mr. Deacon—"She has"

Judge Aubertin—Your tastes are said to be different. I understand that you prefer the society of Americans while your wife prefers that of the French?"

To this Mr. Deacon made no reply. Mr. Deacon had up to this time answered the judge in the French language, but the foreman of the jury objected that he could not clearly understand Mr. Deacon's French, and then the examination was continued through an interpreter. Mr. Deacon answered in English and the interpreter explained the answers in French.

Mr. Deacon's tall, thin form leaned forward as he became more and more earnest in stating his case under the searching examination of Judge Aubertin. He said that he had for some time suspected his wife. He wrote to her from Hamburg telling her that she must cease her intimacy with Abeille. "People are talking," he wrote to her, "and you must choose between us."

To this Mrs. Deacon had answered: "Under your tyrannical treatment I have become too nervous to endure living with you."

She suggested that he, Mr. Deacon, should go to America. This was in July, 1891. "I wrote to her," continued Mr. Deacon, "that I must see her and asked her if she would come to St. Maurice. She telegraphed in reply that she was leaving for Italian lakes. I went to Geneva, where I heard that my wife and M. Abeille were still together at St. Maurice. I then heard that they had gone to Belagie. I telegraphed to the hotel, asking if Mrs. Deacon had arrived there. In answer I got an insulting reply stating that my wife and daughter had arrived there. I telegraphed to my wife to the effect: 'Is M. Abeille with you? Have you eloped? Answer or I shall use the police.'"

Here the telegram was put in evidence.

Mr. Deacon continued: "My wife telegraphed in reply: 'I am tired of life. Use the police if you wish. Hereafter I will only communicate through lawyers.' An intimate friend now in the court room told me that I had done wrong in insulting my wife. Upon his suggestion I wrote an apology to Mrs. Deacon. My wife replied that she would meet me at Geneva and give a satisfactory explanation of her conduct.

"We met as agreed. She denied the rumors connecting her with Abeille and said that she had seen Abeille only in the company of others. We were reconciled and stayed together at Aix for three days. The whole of our family was together at Aix. Then I sailed to America."

Judge Aubertin: "Did you employ detectives to watch your wife?"

Mr. Deacon: "Only in January of this year."

Judge Aubertin: "It is said you used to leave the house free when you knew Abeille was coming?"

Mr. Deacon indignantly answered: "It is not true."

Mr. Deacon went on with his statement as follows: "I told her in January to get a divorce from me, as it would be better for herself and the children. She refused to take any steps toward a divorce." Mr. Deacon's statement as well as his manner evidently favorably impressed the jury and court.

Mr. Deacon added in further reply to the judge: "The detectives whom I employed described another man as having privately visited the restaurant Chevillard in Paris in company with my wife. It was afterwards said that the man was Abeille. I changed the detective who had made a bungle of the case."

Judge Aubertin: "It is a pity that you did not follow up the statement of the detectives. Abeille might in that case be alive and might not have been dealing with this unhappy affair."

Procureur Dumoiron stated the story that Mr. Deacon had found compromising letters in his wife's desk at Newport in 1889.

Mr. Deacon admitted that he had discovered such letters. They were without signature, but in a familiar handwriting, and he believed they were from Mr. Abeille.

Judge Aubertin: "Why did you leave your wife alone at Cannes?"

Mr. Deacon: "My funds were low and I was waiting for money at Paris. On going to Cannes afterwards I found Abeille's name on the register at the hotel where my wife was stopping. I spoke to my wife a[illegible] denied that she was responsible for M. Abeille's presence there."

Mr. Deacon proceeded to describe the scene of the fatal night at the Hotel Splendide. The closest silence reigned when he began to tell the story and every eye was directed towards him with the deepest interest. Mr. Deacon spoke calmly and without emotion, although there was a slight quiver in his voice as he dealt with the tragical part of the affair.

"My wife and I," he said, "had separate rooms at the Hotel Splendide. I went to my wife's room at midnight. As I approached the door I heard within the voice of M. Abeille. I ran to my room and got a revolver. I then went to the secretary of the hotel and asked that he accompany me. Together with the secretary I went to the door of my wife's room and demanded entrance. I said that unless the door was opened I would break it open. Mrs. Deacon opened the door. She was attired in her night dress and held a candle in her hand. I entered and proceeded to examine and see if any one was there. I found M. Abeille crouched behind a sofa. I fired at him twice, then I told the secretary to call the police. When the police arrived I gave them the weapon I had used. When I saw the poor miserable Abeille looking so pitiful in his wounded condition I regretted the deed."

General applause greeted this avowal of Mr. Deacon. Judge Aubertin sternly repressed the demonstration. He said that order must be preserved and he would expel from the court room anyone who should again give utterance to any expression of applause or of disapproval.

Before the adjournment to-day, M. Demange, Mr. Deacon's counsel, said he wished to disabuse the jury's minds of the rumor that the Deacons had profited by the money of M. Abeille. Mrs. Deacon had expended 100,000 francs and Mr. Deacon had expended 60,000 francs of their own incomes within eighteen months. They did not need any contribution from M. Abeille or any other source.

The court reassembled at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The audience included dozens of barristers who hoped to hear M. Demange, one of the most famous French advocates, who in 1870 defended Prince Pierre Bonaparte, when accused of the murder of Victor Noir, and also defended the noted criminal Pranzini.

Even the windows near the roof of the court room were crammed with eager listeners. The name of Madame Deacon was called and the judge read the deposition. The deposition stated: "Mr. Deacon and I met M. Abeille about four years ago. We both liked him. We met him every year at the R'viera. When I went to Cannes I was sorry to learn that M. Abeille's room was next to mine, and I would not have gone to the hotel if I had been aware of the fact. M. Abeille promised to leave the hotel. He came to the room on the evening of the shooting to make arrangements for a picnic next day. Soon after M. Abeille came I heard loud knocking. I opened the door. My husband entered the drawing room and began shooting at M. Abeille, who was standing behind the sofa. After the shooting my husband sent for the police and for a doctor. I remained all night with the dying man."

The deposition stated, under date of Feb. 27, when Mr. and Mrs. Deacon were confronted together before the examining magistrate: "I admit having a great liking for M. Abeille, but we never had any criminal intercourse. I was arranging my hair when M. Abeille entered the apartment. I swear that the bed was unruffled. I deny the story of the Newport letters, said to have been found by my husband in my desk. My husband knew that M. Abeille visited me. I repeat that Mr. Deacon once saw M. Abeille in my room gazing out of the window. My husband was angry and left the room."

The rest of Mrs. Deacon's deposition went largely over the same grounds as Mr. Deacon's testimony. Mrs. Deacon admitted having lived in the same hotel with M. Abeille, but claimed that she occupied apartments on such occasions in entirely different portions of the building from where he was situated. Mr. Deacon wrote to her twice, saying: "I hope you are enjoying yourself with M. Abeille."

The deposition continued: "I often asked M. Abeille to dine with me when my husband was out. I was very miserable with my husband and often wished for a divorce, but was prevented by my children's sake from taking proceedings. My husband knew and allowed the visits of M. Abeille."

Irma Deodat, Mrs. Deacon's maid, was called as a witness. She was evidently reluctant to say anything that would reflect on her mistress and her testimony was given with hesitation and full of contradictions. She stated in substance that she left her mistress at 10 o'clock on the night of the tragedy and was called in about 11 o'clock to Mrs. Deacon's apartments. There she saw M. Abeille bleeding and prostrate and helped to carry him to his room. M. Abeille was dressed in his coat and trousers at the time. Irma said that she had been with Mrs. Deacon 12 years and had gone with her everywhere.

The residence of Benj. Van Laden, a farmer, caught fire after his six children had been put to bed. Mr. Van Laden was absent.

Mrs. Van Laden heroically devoted her every effort to saving the lives of the little ones. In this she was rewarded with success, but paid for it with her life. She was fatally burned.

ON TOWARD THE EAST

The Relay Riders Pushing Through the Mud

To Carry the Message to New York.

The Bike Boys Have a Hard Time of it, but They are Equal to the Emergency.

Wauseon, May 20.—(Special.)—The relay racers, Root, Young, and Perrin, left here at 2:10 p. m. yesterday, for Perrysburg via the L. S. & M. S. track to Swanton.

Munger, who had run in the relay to Bryan, was on No. 2 and looking out of the window saw the riders and said that they were much exhausted.

Getting off at Swanton, he met a local cycler, who gave him a pointer as to roads.

Upon the arrival of the trio, who had intended proceeding to Holland on the track he asked for the message, which was quickly given him and he shot across the country making the run of 15 miles in 1 hour and 18 minutes.

The time made by Bollmeyer on a Hartford pneumatic was indeed good as he ran on the ties all the distance crossing the tressel over Tiffin river on the byke, which stood the 24 mile jolt without a scratch.

At Perrysburg.

Perrysburg, May 20.—Perrin, of Toledo, and Munger and Root, of Chicago, the relay cyclers, reached here at 5:53 p. m., almost six hours behind time. The route was changed after leaving Bryan and the railroad was used via Holland and Swanton to within a short distance of Perrysburg.

The roads in this vicinity are simply horrible and on the trip to Woodville, the first stop of the third division the highways are even worse than those between Napoleon and Perrysburg. Rigby and Hines, of Toledo, took up the dispatch and started for Woodville at 5:54 o'clock.

Roe, of Chicago, manager of the great ride, said to a correspondent that the six hours lost can be made by fast riding between Erie and Rochester. Young, who accompanied Root and Munger, broke down three miles out of Bryan, but repaired his wheel and came on to Perrysburg later.

At Fremont.

Fremont, O., May 20.—Van Dyke and Parker, relay riders, reached here at 9:27, having left Woodville, 16 miles west of here, at 7:26. Staedter and Van Tyne, the riders from this station, started immediately, but Staedter struck the curbing of a small park in the center of the square and demoralized his rear wheel. Van Tyne discovered the obstruction just in time to stop, and he took the pouch and started on immediately.

Staedter procured a Columbia and started 30 minutes later. The roads through this section are soft and almost unfit for a wagon. It rained hard nearly all day. Van Tyne and Staedter are in good condition. Van Dyke and Parker report the road horrible west of here. The riders left here five hours and 47 minutes behind schedule time.

Through Bellevue.

Bellevue, O., May 20.—The military cycler, Van Tyne ,passed through here at 11:23 p. m., having made the run from Fremont here, a distance of 15 miles, in one hour and fifty-six minutes.

The ride from Perrysburg to Bellevue, 46 miles, was made in five hours and thirty-eight minutes. The rider was escorted through Bellevue by local wheelmen and took the Lake Shore track from here to Monroeville.

Will Take to the Railroad Track.

Norwalk, O., May 20.—Lewis Colton and George Chapman, members of the Toledo Cycle club, arrived here at 6 o'clock last night. The roads from here to Elyria on the route mapped out are impassable owing to the heavy rains. Colton and Chapman will ride from here to Elyria on the Lake Shore track.

The Toledo Boys.

Cleveland, O., May 20.—The bicycle riders, Colton and Chapman, carrying the relay messages from Gen. Miles, of Chicago to Gen. Howard at New York, reached Elyria at 3:58 this morning.

W. A. Crawford and A. Neal, of Cleveland, went out to Oberlin, met the Norwalk riders and relieved them of the message. The roads along this section of the country were well nigh impassable. Little time was lost, however, between Perrysburg and Oberlin. From the latter point, where the Cleveland riders got hold of it, some of the lost time was gradually regained. Neal and Crawford had a very hard ride of it, the latter falling from his wheel three miles west of Elyria. Neal managed to get into the town and fell from his wheel, just as he was met by S. S. Follansbee, who carried the message to Ridgeville. At the latter place F. W. Colson took the package and delivered it to E. J. Douhet, who carried it to Rocky River.

Making Up Time.

The relay bicycle riders passed through here at 5:55 a. m., and reached Painesville at 7:43. The men sent out from here to get Gen. Miles' message at Oberlin met the Norwalk relay at 3:45 a. m., and carried it to Elyria, reaching that place at 4:10.

Considerable time was lost at Kipton, between Norwalk and Oberlin, owing to the breaking of a handle-bar.

After passing Elyria the riders gained time steadily and when Cleveland was reached they had made up 45 minutes of the seven hours lost while passing through northern Indiana and northwestern Ohio.

The roads east of this city are in pretty fair condition and riders here, who have passed over the route, are of opinion that all of the lost time will be regained before Buffalo is reached.

Through Ashtabula.

The relay bicycle riders reached Geneva at 9:05 o'clock, having made the run from Madison, six miles, in 33 minutes. Ashtabula was reached was reached at 9:50 o'clock and the riders were cheered as they flew through the town.

About two and one-half hours of the lost time has now been regained, making the lost time a little over four hours. They expect to make up three-quarters of an hour between here and Conneaut.

Tom Roe, of Chicago, manager of the big relay bicycle ride, left here early this morning for the east. Before departing he expressed himself as being convinced that the lost time will all be made up before the riders get to Rochester, and that the message will be delivered to Gen. Howard several hours inside the schedule time. He said he was glad that the weather and the roads had been so unfavorable, as the excellence of the performance would be intensified because of the poor conditions under which it was accomplished.

BOTH WERE DEAD.

A Husband Kills His Wife and Then Himself.

Newark, N. J., May 20.—A dreadful murder and suicide was committed at East Orange this morning.

A Russian Jew, who works as a blacksmith in a carriage factory and lives at 82 West street, shot his wife through the head some time before 9 o'clock this morning and then shot himself.

The name of the man is said to be Nonkowski, and the cause of the tragedy is supposed to have been a quarrel.

The couple were discovered dead in a pool of blood on the floor of their house.

MRS. HARRISON BETTER.

The President's Wife Has Been a Very Sick Woman.

Washington, May 20.—Mrs. Harrison is reported better this morning and able to sit up. Under the influence of fair, dry weather, the rheumatic tendencies in her case will disappear, it is thought, and her condition be greatly improved.

Speaking of the trip down the river, Dr. Gardner said: "Mrs. Harrison, in the first few days gained strength, but she caught cold which brought on a recurrence of her cough, accompanied by rheumatic pains and I was at once sent for. I found her suffering from a severe cold and also threatened with an attack of rheumatism and at once ordered her home.

"The trip will be beneficial, nevertheless. Although she does not feel the effects now she will later on."

MUTINY ON THE NELSON

The Non-Union Men Refuse to Slush Down

And the Captain Has to Get Out His Gun.

Loss on the Russia's Cargo Was $45,000—Vessel Passages—General Marine News of Interest.

Buffalo, May 20.—Capt. McFee, of the schooner Nelson, towed by the steamer Folsom, reports mutiny by three non-union sailors while coming down St. Clair river. He ordered the men to scrape the foremast, but they refused to do so. Later, one of them attacked the captain twice, threatening to kill him, and the other two tried to assist in the second attack. Capt. McFee then got his revolver from the cabin and compelled the men to keep quiet. On their arrival here the men left without being paid, and McFee swore out warrants for their arrest. Other non-union men were put on the Nelson, with police protection. Later the Nelson's sailors were arrested by the marshal and brought before the United States commissioner.

Capt. Closy, of the New York, which arrived Monday, reported to-day that Martin Murphy fell overboard 12 miles from Buffalo, about daylight Monday, and was drowned. Murphy lived at Williamsburg, Long Island.

The loss on the jettisoned cargo of the steamer Russia was ascertained to-day to be about $45,000. Some boxes of clothing were picked up on the Canada shore, but the authorities levied so heavy a duty on the goods that they were left there.

Labor Troubles.

Chicago, May 20.—The crew of non-union sailors put aboard the barge Newell Eddy, of the Eddy-Shaw fleet, were under police protection yesterday. The steamer Charles Eddy and her consort, both grain loaded, expected to get away last night. Shipping Master Biemel, after his examination at police headquarters, returned to the office and attended to business as usual. Mr. Biemel says it is a general shipping office, located here by the central committee of the Lake Carriers' association, and that men will not be supplied to any vessels not in the association.

Chicago.

Chicago, May 20.—Excited markets to-day gave grain shippers no time to look after boats. Not one outside boat was chartered up to the close of 'change.

The Egan Case.

Chicago, May 20.—F. W. Egan, son of the missing ship master, arrived here this morning from Cleveland and joined in the search for his father. He is positive that his father is not on an extended spree.

A Captain Drowned.

Port Colborne, May 20.—The steamer Seguin reports that when off Port Stanley yesterday Capt. Robert Hayes, of the Ogarita, which was in tow of the Seguin, went forward to fix something around the jib-boom and fell oveboard and was drowned.

Every effort was made to save him, and a small boat was near him when he went down for the last time. A heavy sea was running.

Capt. Hayes was well known around the lakes, having been an old canaler. He was about 60 years old and resided in Buffalo. The Seguin and Ogarita arrived here this morning on their way from Duluth to Kingston with wheat.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

A Day Devoted to the Election

Of Editors of the Christian Papers.

Much Progress Made by the Assembly at Omaha—The Doings in Detroit.

Omaha, Neb., May 20.—The election of an editor of the Central Christian Advocate was taken up by the Methodist conference. Dr. Stewart of Kansas City nominated Dr. Jesse Bowman Young. Elder Shank of Nebraska nominated Chancellor C. F. Creighton. Dr. Masden of St. Louis, Dr. McElroy of Illinois, Rev. J. C. W. Coxe, Dr. R. W. Goodwin of Illinois, and Dr. W. T. Smith of Iowa were nominated.

Before the ballot was taken Bishop Merrill announced the election of Dr. Arthur Edwards as editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate by the last ballot taken on the previous day. Dr. Edwards got 307 votes out of a total of 458. The result appeared to be eminently satisfactory to the conference.

The first ballot for the editor of the Central Advocate was then taken. Mr. Shinkle's scheme for balloting proved to be a veritable time saver. The ballot was taken in 10 minutes, whereas by the old way of calling the roll it required nearly half an hour.

Dr. C. W. Smith was the only man nominated for the editorship of the Pittsburg Advocate. His election was practically unanimous.

The conference decided to reconsider the motion by which the call for the presentations was shut off on May 18. It was decided to have one more full roll call for the introduction of resolutions.

For editor of the Northern Advocate, printed at Syracuse, N. Y., J. E. C. Sawyer was the only nominee. Before taking the ballot, Bishop Merrill announced the result of the ballot for the editor of the Central Christian Advocate, as follows: Dr. Young, 211; Dr. Creighton, 79; Dr. Coxe, 62; Dr. Smith, 46; Dr. McElroy, 34; Dr. Marsden, 26; Dr. Goodwin, 18; rest scattering; no election. A second ballot was then taken on the Central Advocate.

The second ballot for editor of the Central Advocate was announced. It gave Dr. Jesse Bowman Young the election by a vote of 300 ballots out of 462.

The conference took up the election for an editor of the California Christian Advocate. The nominees were Dr. B. F. Crary, the incumbent, and Dr. W. S. Matthew, both of California. Prior to taking the ballot Bishop Morrill announced the result of the ballot for editor of the Northern Advocate. Dr. J. E. C. Sawyer was elected by a very large majority.

Now the colored people were in it. The election of an editor for the Southwestern Christian Advocate interested them deeply. Dr. A. E. Albert, the editor for the past four years, is a colored man. In fact it is a paper published especially for the colored Methodists. Rev. Shumpert nominated D. A. E. Albert to succeed himself. The colored delegates had the conference all to themselves for half an hour. Mr. Knox of Kentucky made a speech that sailed away into the clouds, and part of it never came down again. He nominated Dr. E. W. S. Hammond of Kentucky. The contest lay between Dr. Albert and Dr. Hammond. The samples of oratory presented by the colored brethren were very creditable to them. They spoke vigorously and plainly and were heard all over the house. The ballot was taken.

The election of an editor for the Methodist Apologete, the German paper published at Cincinnati, was taken up. Dr. William Nast, for many years editor of the Apologete, had decided to retire from the editorial chair. His son, Prof. A. J. Nast, was nominated for the position. Dr. J. L. Kestler was also nominated. Prior to taking the ballot Bishop Merrill announced the result of the ballot for the Southwestern Advocate. E. W. S. Hammond got 244 votes and Dr. Albert 227. Hammond was elected. The ballot for the editorship of the Apologete was then taken.

A. J. Nast was announced as the successful candidate in the election for editor of the Methodist Apologete. Dr. A. J. Leibhart was elected editor of the Haus Und Herd, another German paper. Dr. C. H. Payne was nominated as corresponding secretary of the board of education. Dr. Bridgman and Dr. T. B. Neely were also nominated. The ballot was taken and then the conference adjourned.

THE TRAGEDY IN TEXAS

Public Indignation Meeting Held.

Five Thousand Dollars Reward Offered for the Murderers of the Four Women.

Denison, Tex., May 20.—The city hall building was thronged last evening with a mass meeting of prominent citizens, gathered for the purpose of taking some steps towards effecting the capture of the guilty party who murdered the four women here Wednesday night.

Resolutions were adopted, pledging a reward of $5,000 for the capture of the murderer.

News was received from McKinney, Tex., late last night, stating that a man had been arrested there on suspicion of being connected with the tragedy. On his trunk was a tag which bore the name of Burton, which he said was put there by a drunken man. The city is still intensely excited and if the man is captured, his punishment will be swift and terrible.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD.

New Orleans Street Car Employes Go on a Strike.

New Orleans, May 20.—Thirty days ago the car drivers of this city struck for 12 hours a day at $55 per mouth. Their demands were acceded to.

Last night they struck again, demanding that all non-union men be discharged.

The several presidents of the car lines refused the request and the consequence is that, with the exception of two lines the city is tied up.

The strikers are becoming riotous and nearly one hundred of them are in jail on charges of inciting a riot. The railroad people say they will not give in. The strikers are equally as firm in their demands and the situation at present is very serious.

MAY BE CHANGED.

The Date and Place of the Convention of Republican Clubs.

Pittsburg, May 20.—A. B. Humphrey, secretary of the National League of Republican Clubs, has written State Secretary Randolph, of this city, that the place of holding the next annual convention will probably be changed from Buffalo to New York city and the date changed from two weeks after the Minneapolis convention to the last week in August. President Clarkson's idea in making the change is to make the convention the opening gun of the presidential campaign.

The Progress of the Church Gratifying.

Millions Contributed for Benevolent Institutions—Proceeding of the General Assembly.

Portland, Ore., May 20.—The second day's session of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church opened with the usual religious exercises.

Nearly all the delegates answered to the calling of the roll, and the upper portion of the church was packed with privileged visitors.

After the opening exercises a large number of reports were submitted. That relating to the growth of hte church is of special interest. It shows that in the year 1840 there were in this country five Presbyterian ministers, two churches and 1,000 communicants. At the present time there are over 6,000 ministers, in excess of 7,000 churches, and 825,000 communicants.

During the last year nearly 60,000 persons were admitted to the church by confession, and the aggregate contributions for benevolent purposes reached the enormous total of four and a third millions of dollars.

Great interest is manifested in the Briggs issue, and while a number of delegations occupied a conservative position the indications are that the assembly as a whole is overwhelmingly anti-Briggs.

When the meeting was called to order yesterday afternoon, Mr. Geo. Junkin of Philadelphia gained the floor and moved that when the nominations for the moderatorship were made there should be no speeches allowed. The motion met with hearty response and was passed by an overwhelming vote.

The men put in nomination were Rev. Robert Christie, D.D., of St. Paul; Rev. T. Ralston Smith, D. D., of Buffalo; Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, D.D., of Detroit; Rev. Wm. A. Bartlett, D.D., of Washington; Rev. Simon J. McPherson, D.D., of Danville; Rev. Samuel A. Mutchmore, D.D., of Philadelphia; Rev. Wm. Alexander of San Rafael, Cal., and Geo. Jenkins, of Philadelphia.

Drs. McPherson and Christie and Elder Jenkins attempted to withdraw, but were not allowed to do so.

Voting then proceeded and the result was announced as follows: Christie, 15; Smith, 33; Radcliffe, 149; Bartlett, 17; McPherson, 107; Young, 128; Mutchmore, 83; Alexander, 8, and Jenkins, 3. No election.

The second ballot resulted: Christie, 1; Smith, 5; Radcliffe, 156; Young, 182; Mutchmore, 148; Alexander, 2, and Jenkins, 1. At this point Mutchmore, Smith and Christie were allowed to retire, while all but three were retired by the assembly on the final ballot which resulted in a total vote of 525 distributed thus: McPherson, 98; Radcliffe, 159; and Young, 268, being five more than the number necessary to a choice.

Dr. Young was declared elected and was escorted to the chair by Dr. Christie. Elder Junkin Reiheldarffer welcomed the newly elected moderator in a neat speech.

The intervals of counting the vote were occupied with routine business and sending a telegram to ex-Moderator Greene expressing the regret of the assembly at his inability to be present, thanking him for his sermon which had been read and wishing him prolonged life. About 6 o'clock the convention adjourned until tomorrow.

THE RIVERS AND HARBORS

The Senate Discusses the Bill.

Many Changes Made and the Measure Now Ready for General Attack.

NEWS FROM ST. MARYS.

St. Marys, O., May 20.—(Special)—While Miss Hattie De Rush was working at her loom, her dress caught in the gearing, and in an instant she was drawn up by the machinery, and would have been torn to pieces had not her cries attracted the attention of Miss Minnie Schoerhoefer, who stopped the loom.

DOWN IN SOUTH CAROLINA

The Alliance is Cutting Quite a Figure.

The Democrats Adopt the Ocala Platform and Then Turn Their Backs on Cleveland.

Columbia, S. C., May 20.—The South Carolina democratic convention adopted the following resolutions:

We, the democratic party of South Carolina, in convention assembled, recognizing the depressed condition of the people, the reign of the plutocrats and the unequal laws of the national congress, hereby reaffirm our faith in democratic simplicity. We pledge anew our allegiance to the principles first enunciated by Jefferson.

Then follows the Ocala platform, entire, word for word.

The plank is also inserted denouncing the Force bill; it is declared that the currency shall be increased, money be issued direct to the people at low interest upon good security. Wall street is declared to have "entered the sacred temple of democracy;" Grover Cleveland's nomination is deeried, and his nomination would be regarded "as prostitution of the principles of democracy and a repudiation of the demand of the farmers' alliance, which embody the true principles of democracy, and a surrender of the rights of the people to the financial kings of the country."

A minority report deprecating the attack on Cleveland was snowed under.

A resolution denouncing the third party was killed. Gov. Tillman's administration was indorsed.

THE DEACON TRIAL.

Peculiar Laws That Govern the People of France.

Paris, May 20.—Alexander Dumas writes reminding Mr. Deacon, who is soon to be tried for the murder of M. Abeille, the seducer of Mrs. Deacon, that the divorce law has existed in France for the past decade. The crime, M. Dumas holds, was without legal excuse. He says for the sake of principle Mr. Deacon might be condemned under the Beranger law. He points out that if Mr. Deacon was convicted under this law he would only be obliged to undergo his sentence in the event of his repeating his offense. This would be equivalent to an acquittal.

GENERAL PALMER IS FIRM

He Will Follow Instructions to the Letter.

The White Grand Army Men in the South Must Fraternize with the Negro.

Albany, N. Y., May 20.—Gen. Palmer, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., when shown the dispatch from New Orleans, stating that the division of Mississippi and Louisiana G. A. R. had surrendered the division charter on account of what they allege is an attempt on the part of Gen. Palmer to force the division to admit the colored veterans, said: "My knowledge of this question I obtained in the public press. The officers of the Louisiana department are fully aware of the action of the last national encampment. The eight white posts objected to admitting the nine colored posts in that division. It is not reasonable to suppose that the representatives of eight posts can override the voice of nearly half a million of men represented at the national convention.

"At the last meeting in Detroit they tried to have two separate departments established in that division, one for the white posts and one for the colored, so that each could hold separate meetings.

"This proposition, however, was rejected. The colored posts recently notified me that they had tendered their dues to the Louisiana department headquarters which were refused. I ordered the department commander to recognize these posts and to receive the dues. He refused, putting himself in open hostility to the rules of the national encampment. Nothing was left for me to do but to suspend him. The command of the department then devolved upon Senior Vice-Commander Durkee, whom I ordered should report to me by May 15, whether he had carried out my instructions to recognize these posts. Having failed to so comply, an order will be issued to-day suspending Mr. Durkee, and designating the junior vice-commander to take charge of the affairs of that department. If he declines to obey orders, then I shall be required to place some one else in command of the department."

ORIGINAL LIBERTY DAY

Being Celebrated in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Declaration of Independence Commemorate.

Mecklenburg County Makes the Most of Her Fame Gained in Her Country's Cause.

Charlotte, N. C., May 20.—To-day is what is known as "Liberty Day" in this state, in commemoration of what is claimed to be the first declaration of independence.

It was on May 20, 1775, when the North Carolinians were holding a conference in Muhlenburg county, that the news was received that the Americans had repulsed the British at Lexington. Then and there the congress declared independence, and sent a messenger to Philadelphia to notify the colonial congress. Since that time the event has been celebrated annually in the state as "Liberty Day."

Additional eclat was given to the demonstration of to-day by the presence of Senator Hill and a large delegation of members of congress which arrived this morning. The city is crowded with visitors, every portion of the state being represented, and the decorations are lavish and elaborate.

There was a street parade this morning of military and civic societies and city officials, and at the mass meeting which followed Senator Hill delivered the oration.

He received a hearty welcome, during both the parade and the delivery of his address.

The Washington delegation accompanying him included Senators Vilas, Jones of Arkansas, Gray, Colquitt, Butler, Vance, Ransom, and Representatives Forney, Wheeler, Hatch, Holman, Cochran, Cummings, Page of Rhode Island, Breckenridge of Kentucky, and Eppes of West Virginia.

TELEGRAPHERS.

D. G. Ramsay Elected Grand Chief Operator.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 19.—The proposition to have future conventions held biennially was defeated by a large adverse vote at this morning's session of the railway telegraphers.

D. G. Ramsay was elected grand chief by acclamation. J. J Weatherby, of Denver, defeated T. B. MacMahon, of Buffalo, for the office of assistant chief by the close vote of 89 to 81 on the second ballot.

The rest of the session was occupied in the discussion and adoption of a bill pertaining to the protective policy of the order but the delegates were pledged not to make it public.

IMITATORS AND IMPOSTORS.

The unequalled success of Allcock's Porous Plasters as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous parties to offer imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of Allcock's. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with Allcock's a false pretense.

The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring Allcock's Porous Plasters the best external remedy ever produced.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

On motion of Mr. Palmer the bill authorizing the detail of an officer of the army for service in connection with the Chicago fair was passed.

THE PRETTY SOUBRETTE.

The manager sat in his easy chair,
Counting his roll one day,
The season was booked and everything looked
That at last it was coming his way.
He was feeling good, for he'd made a mash,
On "the pretty soubrette who was watching the cash."

The play had proven a drawing card,
And the cast he had picked was strong,
His paper was fine and "dead in line,"
And things were booming along.
But his leading man looked out from the flies
And watched the soubrette with the soft blue eyes.

A sealskin sack he bought her next day,
And also a diamond pin.
And he thought of a brown stone front by the way,
And his pretty soubrette within.
But the leading man had played his part
And won the damsel's hand and heart.

His jumps grew big, it made him sick,
And houses began to grow small;
His paper behind—and the agent kicked
And the rain began to fall.
It seemed that the trouble had hardly began,
When the soubrette had gone and the leading man.

The manager sat in his easy chair,
Devoured by grief and sad despair.
The gang "was on," through a friendly tip,
Though he vowed he'd had a successful trip;
But deep in his pockets are the traces yet
Of the soft blue eyes of the pretty soubrette.

NOVELIST AND CABMAN.

Alexander Dumas, Jr., writes as follows: "My father possessed extraordinary strength of muscle, evidence of which I had for the first time when about 14 or 15 years of age. One day he took me to the gmnase. As we came out of the theater it was raining cats and dogs. I followed him to a solitary cab which was standing on the boulevard. He gave his address to the driver, who stood beside his cab. We were about to get in when the man put his hand on the door, saying.

"'I'm not going to stir from the spot in this weather under 5 francs a fare.'

"'You won't eh?'

"'No.'

"'For the first, second and last time.'

"Cabby made no reply, but stood there with his hands on the door. Then my father got hold of the man around the middle, lifted him from the ground, hoisted him on his seat and said: 'Perhaps you'll go now?'

"And stepping into the carriage he said to me: 'Remember in future how you are to deal with refractory cabmen.'

"I still fancy I see that cabby with his heavy cloak, all of a heap, jerked up into the air like a feather and flopping down on the seat like a lump of lead."

WHY HE DID IT.

If all the stories credited to Sorosis have their origin in that feminine society its meetings must be decidedly entertaining. One is that at the recent annual session a knot of members were gossiping, and one said: "You know what a handsome man my husband is?" All the women said they knew. "And you know I am not handsome." A visible reluctance to reply is observed among the auditors, but the narrator accepts a deprecatory murmur as answer, and goes on: "Our butler has an exalted admiration for my husband, and the other day came to me and said: 'Mrs. ——, I do think Mr. —— is the handsomest man I ever did see. I looked at him agoing down the steps this morning, an' I says to myself: There ain't a better lookin' man in New York than Mr. ——.' So then I asked him: 'James, what do you suppose induced Mr. —— to marry as homely a woman as I am?' He looked at me for a moment, and then replied solemnly: 'Mrs. ——, it was God's will!'"

IRELAND AND THE "GREEN."

It is more than probable that the Irish preference for the color green for their flag and sashes arose from a mistake among those who had lost a thorough knowledge of the old Irish language. The sun, in Irish, is called by a word pronounced like our word "green;" and it is likely that the Irish fondness for that color arose from the word's exact likeness in sound to their word for the sun. In the same way when we talk about greenhouses we think they are called so because the plants are kept green in them during the winter. Yet it is far more probable that the "green" here is the Irish word, meaning not the color, but the sun; because greenhouses are built so as to catch the sun's rays and store them up while it is hidden by clouds, as happens more than half the time in showery Ireland.

APPETIZING FOOD FOR DYSPEPTICS.

Upon three teaspoonfuls of lactated food, moistened with cold water, pour half a pint of hot milk or hot water. Stir thoroughly, and it is ready for use. For the evening meal, this gives complete relief from the poor sleep that is frequently a distressing symptom of dyspepsia.—Medical Journal.

AGAINST ANARCHY.

Paris, May 20.—The minister of justice has submitted a bill directed against the anarchist journals. It provides for seizing the papers when it is believed they intend to publish prohibited matter and for the arrest of the journalists believed to be engaged in writing articles inciting to unlawful deeds.

The Dolls' Complexion.

"Well, darling, how are your dolls?"

"They are not very well, Aunty. I wish you would give me some of the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. Mamma said it done you so much good, and has cleared your complexion. They need it, too."

The natural Carlsbad Sprudel Salt (powder form) is an excellent Aperient, Laxative and Diuretic. clears the complexion and purifies the blood. It is easily soluble, pleasant to take and permanent in action. The genuine product of the Carlsbad Springs has the signature, "Eisner & Mendelson Co.," Agents, and Importers of Mineral Waters, 6 Barclay Street, New York, on every bottle.

PASTURE AT $2 A MONTH!

I will take horses to pasture on my farm at Bay Shore. They will be looked after twice a day, be regularly salted and cared for. The pasture is part tame and part wild. When the tame pasture is exhausted, as is invariably the case in the middle of the summer, the wild pasture is rich and luxuriant, keeping the stock in prime condition the whole season.

The pasture fronts on the bay, so that the stock can stand in the water, which is of material benefit to horses which have become sore from being driven on the pavements. For further information address

FRIDAY MAY 20 1892

On May 20th, 1506, the discoverer of America died at Valladolid, Spain.

While he was on his fourth voyage to America, Queen Isabella died, and his great services as an explorer were thereafter unrewarded. Others appropriated the fruits of his discoveries, and he died in comparative obscurity and want.

The Episcopal convention continues its sessions at Cleveland, with much routine business on hand. The newly elected standing committee of the diocese is composed as follows: Rev. E. W. THE SMEAD SYSTEM

Will Be Placed in the New Immaculate Conception Church.

The building committee of the Immaculate Conception church met last night at the residence of Rev. Father McCarthy. The principal topic of discussion was the mode of heating for the new church, and the Smead system was unanimously approved. A contract was authorized to be signed by the pastor and trustees of the church with Col. Isaac D. Smead to place his improved heating and ventilating system, and superintend the construction for the same, the consideration being $3,020.

Financial matters were next considered, and Father McCarthy reported his success in collecting funds. The chair was authorized to appoint a committee of three to assist the pastor and councilmen as a finance committee. The names will be announced next Tuesday evening. A meeting of the congregation will be held within the new church walls on Sunday, May 29. Other routine matters were disposed of, and the committee adjourned.

Entertained in Great Style at Their Armory Last Evening.

Last evening an enjoyable entertainment was given under the auspices of the Trinity Cadets at their armory in Trinity parish building. The program was opened with a piano solo by John W. Clouse. Messrs. Canfield and Lott gave a cornet duet. Miss Cynthia Rogers appeared in character songs and made a hit. Geo. Pattie sang a tenor solo in good style. Dell Jones did some good work on the violin. Miss Grace Wright delighted the audience with a finished recitation. Peter Gerke sang a bass solo and sang it well. Messrs. Lynn, Egelton, Wheeler, Grover and Egelton gave a pleasing number, warbling with harmonica accompaniment. Miss Nettie Raitz, as usual, pleased her hearers with her recitations. Mr. Walton gave a character dance. The program closed with a violin duet by Messrs. Jones and Kellar. During the intermission Rev. Scadding made a few happy remarks, and altogether it was a very successful entertainment.

The company is officered as follows: Warden, Rev. C. Scadding; vice-warden, Thomas A. Smith; sub-warden, Foster Irons; captain, Myer Geleerd; lieutenant, Burnett F. Bliss; ensign, Ermive DeVille; secretary, Chas. Stanley; assistant secretary, Perry DeForest; treasurer, John Tonkin; assistant treasurer, Earl Taylor; first color guard, Lyman White; second color guard, Ralph Stuart; first sentinel, Will Cooper; second sentinel, Ed J. Kohler.

THE PIERCE HOUSE SOLD

To Lou Doan, of Perrysburg—A Hotel with a History.

Mr. J. H. Pierce has sold the famous hotel known as the Pierce house, at Perrysburg, to Mr. Lou Doan, of that place. Mr. Doan enters into possession to-day, and will conduct the institution on a par with the great record the house has achieved under Mr. Pierce.

The house has a record. It was built in 1822, and to-day the structure is as solid and substantial as it was 70 years ago. Not a door has been changed, not a hinge or a lock. A Bee was shown over the hotel by Mr. Pierce yesterday, and it is truly worthy of a visit. In the office are two semi-circular doors, each graven from a solid piece of wood, and made to fit into a semi-circular section of the office.

Tom Parkhurst, an expert on housework, pronounced the carvings on doors and wainscotting as clever in design and excellent in execution.

This is but the third time the hotel has changed hands in 70 years. On its early registers are found the names of prominent men, such as Daniel Webster, written 60 years ago.

CATCHING A TRAIN.

Trials and Tribulations of Twenty-five Travelers.

There were 25 of them in a Consolidated electric car yesterday fore noon, bound for the Union depot. All wanted to make the C., H. & D. train, which leaves at 10:15. At Monroe street is was 9:55, so that there were 20 minutes to go on. Man proposes, etc.

The Perry street bridge was open to admit a lazy towing scow. Impatiently the 25 travelers watched and waited. Five, ten, twelve minutes gone, and yet the bridge remained open. Several made a break for the St. Clair street line, and were fortunate enough to just catch a car.

"Six minutes and she's gone," exclaimed a Bee as he too made a break for St. Clair street. But, alas, there was no car.

Mr. Popp, I've just five minutes to reach the depot and make a train. Can you get me there?" exclaimed the breathless Bee to the genial and popular livery owner.

"I'll try," said Joseph, curtly, as he picked up a whip and made a bee line for the rear stable.

In less than it takes to write it a buggy whisked out of the stable and down St. Clair street on a dead gallop.

What a race it was to be sure. Four minutes to make the Union depot, but he made it. Joe never undertakes a thing that he does not accomplish.

As the train pulled out just as a Bee swung on the rear platform the electric car aforesaid was seen blocked on the top of the hill between two other cars, and 24 angry travelers were left.

THE ELECTRIC TRACKS.

Humane Society Writes Superintendent McNamar—His Answer.

The following correspondence relative to the dangers of the over-charged condition of the tracks of the electrical street railroads of this city, has been carried on between Hon. J. M. Brown, president of the Humane society, and J. M. McNamar, city electrician, showing what action is being taken in the matter. It is certainly one which should receive immediate attention:

John M. McNamar, Esq., City Electrician, Toledo:

Dear Sir: Complaints are being daily received by the Toledo Humane society of injuries to horses, arising from overcharged condition of the tracks of the electrical street railroads of the city. Besides the physical suffering of the animals themselves, the complete shattering of tehir nervous system and their consequent future unsafety, there is also a great danger to human life, arising from this condition of things. The Humane society hopes you will take steps at once to remove this evil and secure not only the horses, but likewise the people from needless injury.

I am Yours Truly,
J. M. BROWN,
President Humane Society.

Hon. James M. Brown, President Humane Society, Toledo:

Dear Sir: Referring to the subject of your note of the 18th inst., I have watched very closely the electrical construction of the street car companies. I will say, without going into detail, that everything has been done to bring about a better condition, excepting a resort to the courts, which is as yet inexpedient, as I am advised by the city solicitor. Injunction papers were prepared, whereupon both street car companies agreed to a reconstruction, which has been going on, and, it is promised, shall be completed in the "disputed territory" by Sunday night next. Believe me, I have not been idle in this matter, and shall report to you again on the subject.

Respect.,
J. M. McNAMAR,
Sperintedent Telegraph.

IN LABOR CIRCLES.

Central Labor Union Meets and Passes Resolutions.

The Central Labor union held their regular meeting in Carpenter's hall last night and admitted the following new delegates: Working girls, Augusta Brant, Kate Malley; metal polishers, Chas. Moag, H. Yernig; carpenters, C. F. Andrews; musicians, G. H. Bolli; machinists, A. N. Long. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. F. Bittner for three boxes of cigars bearing the blue label, also to the boss brewers for their kind reception of delegates from Central Labor union. Letters were read from Senator Brice and Congressman Haynes promising to support the eight hour law. Some of the retail shoe dealers still keep the late hours, and a committee was appointed to wait on them and ask them to close at 6:30. The legislative committee were requested to be present at the common council meeting next Monday night as the market legislation will come up on that night. Aid in the shape of a $10 donation was voted to the Anti-Convict Labor league, of Illinois, to assist them in prosecuting the officials of that state for alleged breaking of the laws of the constitution. The members expressed their opinion on the Sunday ball controversy in the following resolutions:

Whereas, A movement has been started in this city to enforce the law against Sunday ball playing, and

Whereas, We believe the playing of ball on Sunday to be a harmless, healthy and innocent amusement, and as it is impossible for the workingmen to witness the game on any other day without losing a part of his already insufficient wages, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the Central Labor Union, do hereby protest against the enforcement of this law against ball playing, so long as it is to be singled out for attack and other entertainment and amusement of a much more harmful character allowed to exist; and further be it

Resolved, That we hereby petition the proper authorities to repeal this law, as we believe it to be unnecessary and a burden, which falls upon the workingman alone.

DEATH IN WATER.

The Millions of Dangers Water Contains and the Rapidity With Which They Increase—Don't Take Any Chances.

Few people have any idea how impure even the purest drinking water is. The very best water known is full of germs. They are the most prolific creatures of which we have any knowledge, for a single one may be the causative parent of more than sixteen million, five hundred thousand descendants in a day. They are also possessed of great vitality, for they can be carried great distances in water without losing their power of producing disease. They can be frozen or even boiled without being destroyed. They may be kept dried for years and yet when placed in a suitable medium will come to life and produce fermentation and decay. They are the great producers of malaria, fever, grip and most serious diseases.

"But," you say, "what can be done to avoid them since they cannot be killed by boiling?" There is but one thing which will effectively destroy them and that is coming in contact with spirits. A small amount of pure spirits in the water will effectually kill them and destroy their evil effects, but it should be borne in mind that nothing but the purest and best spirits should be used for this purpose, and that nothing is equal to whiskey. Not the ordinary whiskies which are upon the market, but something far above them—something which is highly endorsed by the scientific world. Such a whiskey is Duffy's Pure Malt, which is, to-day, more popular than ever before in its history, and which is doing wonders to destroy the germs of every disease. There are hundreds of families that use it constantly in connection with their drinking water, both at the table and between meals. Beware of any druggist or grocer who seeks to offer you something he says is "just as good." Duffy's is the only pure medicinal whiskey upon the market.

Politics in School.

Is it believed, by any thinking and unprejudiced person, to be an advance in educational lines in this country, that partisan politics in club or league or any other form, are to be introduced into our institutions of learning? We have banished religious teachings that our children may grow into manhood and womanhood free from sectarian bias and prejudice. We place at the head of our colleges and universities the wisest and most scholarly men in the country. Shall any insistent political party assume that these are not competent to instruct our youths in the class room in the science of government and the principles of political economy?

Aside from all party sympathy one way or the other, the virtual and avowed object of the movement in Ann Arbor University, is to inaugurate a system of instruction that shall counteract class-room education, whenever that may chance to conflict with the opinions and policies of the republican party. In few, plain words it is a direct snub and insult to college faculties and the board which employs them. The man who was elected president of the republican college club league the other day at Ann Arbor was for years the private secretary and confidential man of Matthew Quay; as one organ has boasted, "a man well qualified by his training to carry the enterprise to success." This is the man, who, with his confreres Clarkson, Dudley, Blaine, cunning politicians, not scholars, in any sense, men with only partisan policy, a policy which the mass of people in this country utterly repudiate—these are they who assume to unteach the lessons of the class and lecture room. Lessons which have nothing of politics in them but only foundation truths evolved from the study of the histories of governments and the conclusion of large-minded men to whom the frequent changes on the political chessboard signify little or nothing.

To assume that the selfish present-day policy of an unreliable political party must be lifted to an important place in college education, is a ridiculous and dangerous innovation. The logical sequence of such a movement must be—political schools with professors to teach party politics, a debasement and narrowing of education. College professors are as human as supreme court judges. If they must become politicians with all the term implies, they will probably submit to the degradation of character to hold their places. The next raid will be upon the text books—that these shall be revised by partisan hands and all teachings not in accord with party ethics be expunged. When this day comes what a grand free country this will be? The schools and the courts have been our bulwarks; the courts are already smirched; shall our schools be dragged down at the behest of small-minded, one-ideaed men who temporarily mount to commanding places in the public view? It is really a serious question. The American people should declare, without respect to party affiliation, that our schools shall be kept free. We should be reforming politics out of our public school boards instead of introducing the confusing and disturbing element into our higher institutions.

Reviving Sectionalism.

The rantakerous Cleveland Leader finds a fresh opportunity to yelp at the South, and plays an excellent second fiddle to the Chicago Inter-Ocean. The present outbreak of the Leader is inspired by the resolution of the good Methodist brethren at Omaha against the poor treatment of the negro, who is said to be discriminated against in hotels, on trains and socially. One does not need to go south of the Ohio river to find race distinction. It exists in degree all over the United States. To approach the line of full fellowship one must go outside of the limits of North America. The negro is treated no better in republican Pennsylvania than in democratic Georgia. The two races fellowship very fairly in trade transactions but no further, and among the intelligent reasoning negro classes there is no more desire for fellowshipping with other races than exists among the whites. The Methodist Church South realizes the actual conditions of society in the old southern states much better than their northern brethren, and their good will, through zeal and eminent piety is no less characteristic of them than of their northern neighbors.

With the church brethren it is a question of church policy and whatever principle is involved is more a question of denominational descipline than anything else, and certainly does not call for the re-flaunting of the ensanguined garment by south-hating republican newspapers and politicians. However, if the republican party is devoid of principles and legitimate issues to prosecute the presidential campaign they are welcome to a revival of sectional hate. It will be a fine opportunity to resurrect the speeches of other campaigns. Upon this issue the Leader and John Sherman and Foraker and the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette can organize a campaign quartet that will be a harmonious attraction for several months.

The English Bugbear.

The Anglophobia which appears to seize republican editors and orators on all occasions bursts forth with especial virulence when the air gets charged with the coming campaign storms. The Cobden club, which is reported one day as bankrupt and unable to pay twenty-five cents on the dollar because of the decline of free trade sentiment in England, on the next, is sending gold over here in barrels to defeat Harrison or Blaine for renomination. A little time ago it was charged that England was guilty of assisting to peace measures between Chile and this country because war would be detrimental to her business interests in the South American republic. Of course it was a mean thing for England to do, to contrive for peace when President Harrison wanted to fight. And now England is prompting an investigation of our Minister Egan!

It makes one smile to read how the mother country is spending the most of the time sticking fingers into all our pies, and then to hunt daily through the newspapers of the United Kingdom for ten lines of United States mention. Those Englishmen who are partially succeeding in their attempts to run this country—according to republican accounts—must be sly with their plots and plans; there is no discussion of anything pertaining to them in parliament reports or anywhere else in public print. The supposition is that England doesn't care two straws about what we do with our Mr. Egan. But there is a large home contingent who would prefer that the Egans and the Raums and Porters remain uninvestigated.

Mr. Farley is for the man who can win.—Cleveland Leader.

And Hon. John H. Farley is in full accord with all democrats who desire the country to be governed honestly and economically and for the masses. And of such desires are all democrats. "For the man who can win" is a splendid resolve to take to the Chicago convention and keep in view until the candidate shall be named.

As the Minneapolis convention approaches, the old Sherman anxiety manfests itself. A few weeks since the Senator said he was not a candidate for the presidency in any sense of the word. Now he says he will not scramble for it. Two weeks hence he will be chasing delegates. It would be a lonesome republican convention without John Sherman's familiar candidacy intruding itself in hotel corridors and delegation headquarters.

New York is in hard luck. While the Chicago university is forging ahead, taking its pick of professors east and west, the college of the City of New York is proclaimed, by Metropolitan papers, to be going into swift decadence, to have outlived its usefulness, and a commission is appointed to find out what ails the institution. The rumpus was started by request for appropriation for new buildings, and an investigation as to facts and causes grows out of it. Commissioner Lummis said sixteen hours teaching of the English language to five hundred hours of Greek, Latin, French, Spanish, German and other languages more or less dead or alive, was one cause of the failure. The whole country is interested in the success or failure of any educational institution within its borders, and the decision of the investigating committee is awaited.

Congressman Stout, of Michigan, whose bill to place all grades of sugar on the free list is now before the ways and means committee, has prepared, as a strengthener, a list of the refineries that have entered the trust since April, 1892, with their daily capacity, in barrels, with a list of the refineries which are controlled, and of those which have been closed, by it. The attorney for the trust says "these concerns are closed because of overproduction." And yet we are paying a bounty for production. It was a republican senator, the father of the anti-trust bill, who said if this is a "trust" then let the duty be removed. It is a fine illustration of governmental interference to force trade out of natural into artificial and special channels.

Woes crowd on one another's heels so quickly do they follow. Trouble arises for Candidate Harrison in a new quarter. The Philadelphia Record is a non-union office and its owner also manufactures paper, great quantities of which are bought and used by the United States government. The typos have decided to memorialize the president concerning the matter, and ask for action against Mr. Singerly. Perhaps President Harrison will commission Mr. McKinley to tell the people why labor is obliged to organize and make such persistent demands, in this country where the wage-earner is protected by tax.

The personal reasons Murat Halstead was a bitter enemy of the late Capt. John B. Eads, the eminent engineer of the St. Louis bridge and whose theory carried into practice gave a deep and free channel to the lower Mississippi river. So malignant is Halstead that he still whacks Mr. Eads as if he were yet in the flesh to defend himself. A crank with a hobby never knows when to let up.

The Russian government does not consider the starvation of its peasantry of first importance. The czar has offered a loan of £500,000 to Persia, which Persia declines to accept for reasons, but will go to London for assistance. The czar might loan the funds to his own famishing people.

Gov. McKinley was appealed to by the national art congress in session in Washington, on the subject of "free art." He promised to "do all he could for the advancement of art." As his idea of advancement of an industry is to put a tax upon it, his assurance was simply an evasion.

The high-tax advocates are the most versatile crowd in the world in the way of expediency. When anything good happens the country, the claim it as a result of the protective policy. When anything bad happens they explain how much worse it would have been but for tariff protection.

The Canadian house of commons offers to make a reciprocity treaty with England. The Times remarks upon it as "a remarkable sign of the times." Should think so; the child dictating terms to the old lady. There was a time when England did not deal thusly with her colonies.

The senate is still working on the river and harbor bill, and thus far, in committee, has made a horizontal reduction of twenty-five per cent.

The slums of New York must indeed be something terrible when a healthy, right-minded young man goes crazy through his first experience as one of an investigating committee. Mr. Erving, with Dr. Parkhurst, made great sacrifice to prove to New York city that its sworn officers of the law conspire and connive with law-breakers, and he gets the usual reward of such sacrifice—scorn and condemnation. Evidently the police of New York have public sentiment behind them in their peculiar method of not seeing and doing.

Senator Walcott of Colorado, in recommending that art be made free of duty, incidentally remarked that some of the "art" around the capital might well be relieved from further duty.

The Courier-Journal very pertinently asks why, in the summing up of lynchings for unmentionable crimes, the Ohio and Missouri cases were not mentioned. The victims were white men.

The total catch of seals by the Newfoundland fleet this year was 348,642. Where did they catch 'em all?

The banks of the Mississippi are holding levees—that is they are trying to.

HITTING BLAND HARD.

Washington, May 20.—The free silver men in the house were greatly disappointed yesterday when the chairman of the committee of the whole sustained the point of order against Mr. Bland's amendment, and their disappointment was renewed when the chairman also decided a modified amendment out of order. The decision left many of the silver men in an angry mood.

DILL ON TRIAL.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 20.—The trial of Bank Wrecker Dill was called in the United States circuit court to-day, but was postponed pending the approval or rejection by the department of justice of a proposed settlement of the case.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION

With Regard to Foreign Insurance Companies

Doing Business in Ohio, Raised by the Defense in the Pope Insurance Matter.

The answer of Sewell S. Parker was filed in common pleas court to-day by his attorneys, King & Tracy, in the case of the Niagara Fire Insurance company against Elbert A. Pope and Sewell S. Parker. The details of the case were printed in the Bee when the case originated.

It is an action to recover, for the alleged defalcation of E. A. Pope as agent, whom Mr. Parker secured.

Mr. Parker has answered in two other suits of a similar nature, and in the answer filed this morning the points covered in the other answers are incorporated in this, aside from two new and interesting points which the defense raise.

The answer sets up that while during the time that defendant, E. A. Pope, was claiming to act as agent for the plaintiff he solicited business and built up for the plaintiff a large and lucrative insurance business in the name of the plaintiff, which was of great value.

It is further stated that on March 15, 1892, the plaintiff sold the agency to Wright & Russell for $1,000. The answer claims that the $1,000 should have been been credited to the account of the defendant by the plaintiff, and now claims that the pretended liability of the defendant has been fully paid.

The next point raised is a new one, of vast interest to agents representing insurance companies of other states, in Toledo.

The Ohio statutes require that any insurance company from any other state doing business in Ohio shall be subject to the same taxes, license, fees, obligations and prohibitions that any Ohio insurance company would be subject to, if it did business in such other state.

The New York statute is such that if any Ohio insurance company undertakes to do business in that state its agents must pay the fire department of every municipal corporation where such agents do business, the sum of $2 upon every $100 which they collect as premiums. This law also provides that before agents can do business in that state they must give bonds to the fire department that they will pay such money at least once a year.

The Ohio statute makes the New York law apply to all New York insurance companies doing business in this state.

Consequently it is the duty of all agents of New York companies doing business in Toledo to pay into the treasury of the city of Toledo, for the use of the fire department, $2 on every $100 which is collected by such agents as premium, for such New York companies.

The answer alleges that Pope did not execute the necessary bond or pay over any money upon the premium colllected for this company. Also that the platiniff knew of his failure to do so.

ROME CONDEMNS IT.

Spreading the Pope's Words on the Faribault System.

New York, May 20.—Archbishop Corrigan is determined that the decision of the Vatican regarding the Faribault scheme shall reach the Roman Catholic clergy in every section of the country, and accordingly he has telegraphed its purport to all of the bishops of the various dioceses, and in many cases to the representative priests.

A majority of the telegrams have been worded in this concise style. "Rome condemns Faribault scheme as a system, but tolerates it in local cases under certain restrictions."

THE BAPTISTS.

Proceedings of the Congress Held in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, May 20.—The proceedings of the Baptist congress were resumed today in Grace church. The number of delegates has been considerably increased since the opening session yesterday, and the roll shows nearly five thousand in attendance.

The annual report indicates that the organization has a membership of 4,300,000, that during the past year it has raised for benevolent purposes nearly four million dollars.

The congress proper will close this evening and will be followed by the anniversary meetings of the Baptist Home Mission society, the American Baptist Foreign Mission society, the American Baptist Educational society, and the American Baptist Publishing society.

THOMAS MOORE.

Chicago, May 20.—To-day is the 113th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Moore, the illustrious Irish poet, and Archbishop Feehan will preside at a demonstration which is to beheld at Central Music hall this evening in honor of the occasion. Ex-Congressman John F. Finerty will deliver the oration, and the musical program will be devoted almost entirely to the productions of the inmortal poet.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Advocates of forest preservation and restoration will find some weighty arguments in the press reports of the floods on the lower Mississippi and Missouri.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The officers of the whisky trust are under indictment in Boston. The officers of the pearl button trust—which Mr. McKinley cited to Mr. Eli Perkins as proof of the tariff's highly beneficial workings—are still at large, but they might hunt a bit of woods to which they could betake themselves upon occasion.—Philadelphia Record.

A caution to taxpayers who are called upon to select paving material for streets abutting their property may not be out of place at this time. Before signing for cheap pavement to save taxes remember that the cheap pavement is the most expensive in the long run.—Omaha Bee.

A test lately applied in New York to see how far applicants for naturalization understood the obligations of a citizen resulted in the rejection of many would-be citizens. To hold men to the comprehension of obligations they voluntarily assume is bringing the naturalization question down to a gratifying business basis, and well would it be for the country if it could be kept there.—Baltimore American.

The Rhode Island election, which started on the first Wednesday in April, has just been finished in Providence. It required five attempts to choose all of the local delegation to the general assembly, and each special election cost the city $3,000. What a farce the whole arrangement is!—Rochester Herald.

The house has ordered an investigation of the Pinkertons. It is probably true that it is without the jurisdiction of congress to suppress this army of hired assassins, but some power ought to reach it. It is one of the most serious menaces to the peace of the country. Here in Indiana a democratic legislature has throttled the iniquity. Other legislatures could do the same, and should do so.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

It is impossible to realize what a great and important man Jerry Simpson is unless you read the republican papers. Jerry certainly cannot make as much noise in the house as his critics make in their party organs.—Kansas City Star.

One of the disguised heresies of the hour is that our government is paternal in its character. Paternalism means centralization of power, an idea that should be hateful to every true American. The only thing that the government has to do is to give every man fair play. We want no socialism, no communism, no nihilism—only the safety of the American citizen the world over.—New York News.

Influential Chinamen are reported to be in conference with President Diaz, but we do not look for an extensive exodus of our Chinamen to Mexico, even though the new exclusion law may seem oppressive. To make money in the laundry business, and in other occupations which engage our Chinese, they must be located in large cities. Mexico has few such, and a limited laundry constituency in any of its communities. That country is not the solution of our Chinese problem. These people are making too much money here.—New York Mail and Express.

It is not probable that it could be shown to be a violation of the contract labor law to divert immigrants to localities where a demand for labor is known to exist. But if any employe of the United States in connection with the immigration board should receive money from employers of labor for this kind of service, he would be discharged. Outside money should not be allowed to be paid to the employes of the government for anything done in connection with their official duties.—Denver Republican.

MRS. PULLMAN.

A Well Known Lady and Artist Dies in New York.

Baltimore, Md., May 20.—Mrs. Margaret Macdonald Pullman died at the residence of her father-in-law, Rev. Royal H. Pullman, in this city yesterday. She was the wife of Mr. George H. Pullman, of Chicago. Mrs. Pullman was a native of Logansport, Ind. She was an artist of national repute, and up to a year ago was president of the Palette club of Chicago.

She had been selected as a member of the special committee of art affairs connected with the world's fair at Chicago.

Dr. Pullman, who is a brother of Mr. Pullman of palace car fame, is expecting the death of his mother, now seriously ill in New York, for which place he left this morning.

CRUDE OIL FOR FUEL.

Electric Light Works---The Consolidated and Robison

To Use the Paragon's Oil Lines—Will Consume About 125 Barrels a Day Each.

The Paragon oil lines will be utilized to its full capacity once it is laid and in operation.

The Toledo Electric Light Works now using an average of 100 barrels a day would use more, but cannot get the necessary supply. The works will be connected with the line as soon as laid.

The Consolidated street car power house is using oil exclusively and very successfully as a fuel, and the company is very desirous to have the line laid.

The Robison electric power house will also utilize the line, and is arranging to do so as soon as possible. The power houses will each consume close on a car load a day.

It is understood that the Woolson, Gendron, and all the large industries along Water street will connect with the line and use the oil for fuel.

This is the first practical admission that crude oil is cheaper than gas or coal.

Mr. F. B. Dodge, treasurer of the Toledo Electric company, said to a Bee this morning that the saving over coal was fully 25 per cent.

OFF FOR NEW ORLEANS.

The Concord Weighs Anchor and Starts South.

Cairo, Ill., May 20—Commander White, of the Concord, received orders from Secretary Tracy yesterday to leave for New Orleans, and in consequence weighed anchor at 8 o'clock this morning.

The Concord will land at any city en route by special permission of the department.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

A Surprise in a Well Just Drilled In.

Gossip Picked Up Among the People Who Drill Into the Earth's Interior.

St. Marys, O., May 20.—(Special)—An important oil well was brought in on the Barrington farm, south of this city, today, by Barnes and Neely. The well is doing about 40 barrels, and is considered a good oiler, inasmuch as it is located farther to the south than any well yet completed in the south pool extension.

The result of this well was quite a surprise to many, as it was confidently expected that it would be nothing other than a gas well, since the gas field is in such close proximity. It may develop after all that the territory farther to the south will turn out to be quite an oil field, as the pay streak is gradually encroaching upon the gas field, and a few years hence will perhaps witness the realization of this assertion.

The new pool recently opened up on the south side of St. Marys reservoir, has received a very black eye, over the completion of a duster on the Long farm. It was hought that this well would be the connecting link between two fairly good oilers, but it is a total failure.

J. H. VanWormer & Co., yesterday drilled in a big gasser on the Bennett farm, with a capacity of 1,500,000 cubic feet daily.

The Ohio Oil company has completed No. 6 on the A. A. Smith farm, southwest of this city. It is good for about 100 barrels.

The Economy Oil company's No. 5 on the Chas. McKee farm, is completed and good for about 75 barrels per day.

The Ohio Oil company's No. 1 on the Sweeney farm in Moulton township, is holding up at 125 barrels. The same company's No. 2 on the same farm is in and good for 30 barrels.

NEW DRY GOODS BUILDING

To be Erected for L. S. Baumgardner & Co.

Handsome Structure for the Wholesale Trade—One of Two Sites to be Selected, Probably To-day.

It has been decided by C. T. Lewis, administrator of the Waggoner estate, to erect for L. S. Baumgardner & Co. a handsome structure on one of two sites already selected.

The Waggoner estate owns a 60 foot tract on St. Clair street, opposite the Bee building, and also where the old mill is which stands on the corner of Summit and Oak streets.

One of the locations will be selected, but the matter will not be definitely settled before this afternoon or to-morrow.

The sites are both suitable for a wholesale dry goods house. Mr. Baumgardner himself rather prefers St. Clair street, but the other has got to be improved and Mr. Lewis is rather inclined to put the building on the corner of Oak and Summit.

The business of L. S. Baumgardner has grown to such an extent that more room is an absolute necessity. The building will be five, and probably six stories, with all the modern conveniences of a first-class wholesale establishment.

HIT IT A HARD BLOW.

Supreme Court Decision on Party Rates.

It Has Resulted in Knocking a Very Substantial Prop from Under the Commission.

Washington, D .C., May 20.—The decision of the United States supreme court declaring that, the interstate commerce law notwithstanding, railroads may issue party-rate tickets for the transportation of ten or more passengers on one ticket at a reduced rate is regarded as almost knocking the last prop from under the interstate commerce commission, and rendering the duties of that body little more than noimnal.

The decision is a great victory for the theatrical profession, no small proportion of which has been almost bankrupted by the refusal of the lines to grant the party rates which were in vogue before the days of the commission, and it will enable them to secure concessions in rates throughout the west where they find it necessary to make long and hitherto expensive jumps. The decision will also be of great advantage to travelling clubs and excursion parties throughout the country.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

Van Wert, O., May 20.—Miss Gertrude Whitt, a pretty and most estimable young lady, died here very suddenly. She was about 18 years old and a member of the high school graduating class of this year. She would have graduated in about two weeks with high honours.

A MISSING GIRL.

Norwalk, May 20.—Miss Bessie Russell, the 15-year-old girl who left her home in Wakeman, Monday, and whose parents are very anxious concerning her whereabouts, was seen in this city Tuesday evening. She boarded the 6 o'clock train bound west.

THE THIRTEENTH OHIO.

Hon. D. D. Hare Will Undoubtedly be Nominated.

Tiffin, O., May 20.—(Special)—The democrats of the Thirteenth congressional district will hold their convention in this city next Wednesday, and preparations are being made to entertain the visiting delegates in regal style.

There is no doubt of the renomination of Hon. D. D. Hare, of Wyandot, who made such a gallant and winning fight against Charles Foster.

A movement is on foot just now to place the name of Col. Haynes, of Fremont, before the convention, but he has repeatedly refused to be a candidate, and the nomination of Mr. Hare is as good as made.

The contests of the convention will be over the selection of delegates to the national democratic convention at Chicago, for which honor five of the counties will present candidates. Crawford will present the name of F. J. Donnenwirth; Erie, Judge Grayson Mills; Marion, Hon. Boston G. Young; Sandusky, Col. Haynes; Seneca, one of several aspirants, among whom are Hon. E. B. Hubbard and Will H. Dore, while little Wyandot will be content with the big plum. As there are six counties and an equal number of honors to distribute, sweet harmony will prevail, and the Thirteenth district will be in shape to roll up something like 6,000 or 7,000 majority for the nominee of the Chicago convention.

The sentiment of the district is doubtless largely for the nomination of Grover Cleveland, but it is not probable that any effort will be made to instruct the delegates to the Chicago convention.

RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

Marion, O., May 20.—Henry Smith, aged 47, an employe in the Chicago & Erie yards, was run over by a train of cars, sustaining the loss of a foot and thumb and receiving a fracture of the skull which, it is feared, will result in his death.

M. ROULES IS A DUELIST

He Fought Four Frenchmen to a Finish.

Warm Words Were Followed by Blows and Then the Field of Honor Followed.

Paris, May 20.—A quadruple encounter with swords was fought by M. Roules and three others named Leclerc, Dumoulin, and Blondel.

The quarrel arose out of a dispute concerning the merits of the new opera, "Salammbo."

M. Roules criticised the piece rather severely during the evening in the hearing of Leclerc, Dumoulin, and Blondel, and a violent altercation took place, ending in an exchange of blows.

At 9 o'clock next morning the antagonists and their seconds went to a spot behind the grand stand at the Longchamps race course.

The first duel was fought by M. Roules and M. Blondel, who, after a few passes, received a wound in the right lung three inches deep, and was carried off the field.

Mr. Dumoulin then faced M. Roules, who at the first thrust ran his rapier through the arm of his opponent, buring the steel in his breast.

The third combat was more prolonged, but after a struggle of fifteen minutes M. Leclere was driven against a tree and received a wound in the face.

M. Avarignet, M. Blondel's second, then interposed on behalf of the vanquished friend, declaring himself ready to fight M. Roules and threatening to slap his face if satisfaction was not given, upon which M. Roules promptly faced his new adversary and succeeded in wounding him in the neck, narrowly missing inflicting a mortal injury.

The quadruple encounter was over by 9:30 and all parties returned to Paris.

About 50 people were assembled at the scene of the encounter, which will in future be famous in the annals of French dueling.

M. Blondel's wound causes great anxiety.

THE CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

Last Meetings Before Vacation.

Brilliant Program Rendered by the Catholic Club Last Night—Last Colloquial Club Meeting.

Toledo people are becoming accustomed to the almost constant downpour, and do not allow it to interfere with pleasure or business; so, as was expected, a large gathering was present at the last meeting until September, of the Catholic club in Friendship hall last night.

The literary and musical programs prepared by the members of this club are always good, and last night they excelled themselves. Two papers were read, one by Mrs. M. B. Daly, on "A Few Hints on What Catholics Should Read," the other by Miss Obermiller, subject, "The Beautiful Art." Both papers evidenced careful thought and study and were very interesting and instructive.

Perhaps no other club in the city numbers among its members so many musical artists as does the Catholic club. The music last night, both instrumental and vocal, was of a high order. "O, Restless Sea," a trio, was sung by Miss Van Dusen, Mr. Trombley and Mr. Poulin. Mr. Bowers and Mrs. Bartelle sang solos; Mrs. Monks, Mrs. Bartelle and Miss Lillie O'Brien sang a trio in a most pleasing manner, and the instrumental selections given by Miss Etta Machen and the Misses Wright were brilliantly executed. Little Miss Edna Smith gave a charming recitation, "Across the Bridge," and responded to an encore. Mr. McDonnell, the president, spoke of the elevating and ennobling character of the work done by the club, its educational features, and hoped each member would return next fall with renewed energy and interest.

The Colloquial club is holding its last meeting at the Kindergarten rooms this afternoon. The paper is being read by Miss Cora Law, on "Boys' Rights."

The directors of the Columbian club will hold a meeting at Judge Harmon's room in the court house at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The financial secretary is meeting with good success in the collection of membership fees, and it is reasonable to expect that the club will soon be in elegant quarters of their own.

TO CONTROL THE TRADE.

Gould and Huntington Make a Big Strike.

Denver, Col., May 20.—A secret message received here yesterday contains a belief that Messrs. Gould and Huntington have made an agreement which will give them a monopoly of the entire business to and from the coast.

The plan agreed upon is to take up the Atlantic & Pacific stock, then Gould will extend the Missouri Pacific from Pueblo to Albuquerque and they will thus have entire control of the coast trade to Omaha, St. Louis and the gulf, via the Union Pacific in the north, from the Southern Pacific connection, and via the Atlantic & Pacific and Missouri Pacific as a southern route.

WRECKED ON THE COAST.

New York, May 20.—The vessel which was wrecked at Squan beach on the New Jersey coast yesterday was the American schooner Mary E. Simmons, bound from Norfolk for this city with a cargo of lumber. Capt. John Taylor and his crew of six men were taken from the wrecked vessel by the steamship Old Dominion and brought to this city.

CAUSE OF THE EXPLOSION.

Roslyn, Wash., May 20.—The coroner's jury investigating the cause of the explosion in the coal mine last Tuesday by which 45 miners were killed, Wednesday evening returned a verdict that the explosion was caused by deficient ventilation. Among miners the verdict was received with general satisfaction.

HIRAM POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Hiram, O., May 20.—When Postmaster H. M. Leach opened his office he found that during the night burglars had blown open the safe and escaped with about $350 in stamps and $100 in currency. No clue.

HE WANTED TO INVEST

A Man in the Chamber of Commerce

Willing to Buy $1,000 Worth of Green Goods

Of the Sharpers Who Were Arrested Here Yesterday Afternoon—Other Letters from Would-Be Shovers of the Queer Published.

They say a fool is born every minute, and from daily evidence this statement seems to be correct. It is surprising in these enlightened times that there are people green enough to be caught by three-card monte men, bunco steerers, green goods men and others of the same stripe. The various methods of these confidence workers are aired daily in the newspapers, and everybody who can read ought to be well enough informed to keep clear of the pit falls they lay. The fool-killer needs a deputy in every city, as more work is piling on his hands these days than he can well attend to.

For several days two well-dressed, gentlemanly looking fellows have been stopping in the city, one at the Boody house registering as W. K. Volkmar, and the other at Hotel Madison, where he passed himself off as W. G. Turner. Detective Manley in his own peculiar way became suspicious of them, and together with Detective Carew, watched the strangers night and day until they were confident that something wrong was up.

Yesterday afternoon the two men were arrested at the corner of Admas and Summit streets. They were very indignant at such treatment, and protested innocence, but nevertheless they were taken to the police station and locked up. To the turnkey they gave their names as Edward White and G. W. Tracey. The detective had not told them that they knew the other names they had given at the hotels, and the fact that the prisoners gave other names was proof that they were crooked.

The birds safely caged, the detectives went to their rooms in the hotels and there found sufficient proof that they were on the right tract. Circulars, packages of "green goods," three-card monte layouts, and letters from various people who desired to go into an unlawful business.

Beyond a doubt they had been working up the green goods business hereabouts. Their manner of working is as follows: In the first place they send to persons they think might be tempted to bite, the following letter:

Do you want to make money fast and safely? The goods are really bona fide and the most skillful expert cannot detect the least particle of a flaw. Any bank or storekeeper will accept of the goods without hesitation. If you have any debts that you are desirous of paying off(these goods will answer every purpose. All correspondence must be returned as soon as perused, otherwise I will not transact any business with you. In writing for terms and full particulars sign your name and postoffice address as plainly as possible. I will be in your vicinity shortly with a full stock of goods and if you're desirous to obtain the same write immediately as my time is limited. Unless you can conduct your business in a strictly confidential manner and not confide in a living soul, my advice would be for you not to think of going into the business.

When they get an answer an appointment is made and the victim buys a package of what he thinks is fine counterfeit money, say $5,000 worth for $1,000 of his good money. The bundle he receives is really confederate money or paper covered with a few good bills on the outside. As soon as the green goods men get their pay they skip out and leave their victim to open his package and weep in solitude.

Many letters from gentlemen willing to buy and push counterfeit money were found among the effects of the two men arrested. The Bee suppresses the names, but gives some of the letters as follow:

Toledo, O., May 2.

W. F. Volkmar.

Dear Sir: I can raise $1,000, or more, if necessary. I shall not give any information in regard to the matter whether I engage in the business you may propose, or not. Very truly yours,

I could invest $5,000, $10,000 or $20,000 or more if necessary in any legal transaction, and if you present your scheme I will consider it confidential.

Dear Sir: Your letters received. Would say it was handed me by — —, jr. I am son of — —. I am in for making a fortune in a year. I have a few hundred, but will want to know where this money will be invested, and if you will reveal your business. I promise you I will not reveal your business.

Grand Haven. Jackson, Mich.

Dear Sir: In answer to your favor of the 2nd, would say that I have all the business I wish and my money invested in same. Thanking you very much for your proposition.

Yours respectfully,

—— ——.

Quite a number of Toledoans have answered in one way and another the letters of the sharpers and are trembling in their shoes to-day for fear they will be mentioned in the affair.

A dispatch was received from Washington this afternoon that the two men are wanted by the postal authorities, and officers will be at once sent here with sufficient evidence to convict them.

THE BONNET BLUE.

The day is done, the gloaming hour
For lovers' trysts is near,
And she hath left her turret bower
To meet her cavalier.
She is the daughter of the earl
For whom the counties sue,
And he's the grandson of a churl,
And wears a Bonnet Blue.

Oh, sweeter is the whispered vow
For what might come between—
No likelier youth than he, I trow,
Was e'er in greenwood seen.
No grace than hers is more divine,
No heart more fond and true;
She lets the lordly suitors pine
To pledge a Bonnet Blue.

She thinks upon her lofty state
And drops a pensive tear;
She looks upon her lowly mate,
And she is straight in cheer.
He holds her in his strong embrace,
He plights his troth anew;
She dreads not danger nor disgrace,
Beside her Bonnet Blue.

Next morn the bower maidens wait
In vain their mistress' call;
The servers stand with cup and plate,
The vassals throng the hall.
But where is she, the proudest born,
The fairest Scotland knew?
She wedded ere the blush of morn
Her dear loved Bonnet Blue!

RACING FOR A WIFE.

"Will you go with me to the races to-morrow?"

"I will," comes the reply promptly.

Jim Vaughn is at all times a very good-looking young widower, but to-day he is especially handsome. He has just alighted from a brand-new buggy and looks as if he had togged himself out in new raiment in order to match his glittering buggy and harness.

We must not fail to give a description of the horse, for that sagacious animal plays a most important part in our story. He is a powerful-looking iron-gray, with a shapely head and beautiful mane and tail, and shows in every line and curve of his magnificent body a fire and mettle hardly to be looked for in other than the genuine race-horse. But he not a race-horse—at least, not yet.

All this time Vaughn is holding a pair of warm, small hands tightly within his own, and looking down with a very tender expression into a pair of very lovely brown eyes.

Is this girl pretty? Certainly her first name—Mack—is not. But she likes the name and tosses her saucy little head as she tells you that at least it has the merit of being uncommon for a girl.

The time comes at last, and the shining buggy drives up in spanking style. Vaughn says not a word, but wraps her up in the inevitable ulster and then by a quick movement swings her up into his arms and carried her bodily out to the buggy.

"You wicked boy," she whispers, but she is not cross, so he clasps her a little closer and wishes he had a mile or more to go.

They have a delightful afternoon and Vaughn makes up his mind to ask the all-momentous question on the way home. They will start directly and he is wondering feverishly what she will answer when all at once he hears her give a queer little gasp, and looking around sees sulky Joe Dalton at her other side.

Dalton is madly in love with Mack, and she is the least wee bit afraid of his gloomy black eyes. She prefers blue—Vaughn's are of the brightest blue. Dalton is speaking.

"I thought you were not coming out to-day," he says, with a fierce glance at Vaughn.

"I suppose I am at liberty to change my mind," says saucy Mack.

"Well," he cries at length, "there is one thing you have got to make up your mind about, and at once; and that is—which of us you are going to marry." Mack stares at him in dismay, but he is resolute.

"I say, Vaughn," he begins again, "let us race for her. We will start from here, and whoever reaches her house first is to be the happy man."

Vaughn laughs at the idea of such a thing. "Why don't you ask her to have you, and take your answer, whatever it may be, like a man?" he says.

But Mack claps her small hands and gives a delighted consent.

She thinks it will be something quite out of the ordinary run of things to have these two men engage in a bona fide race for her hand. She believes that Vaughn has the best horse and can easily win the race, and she knows now that she loves him.

At last Vaughn yields, and it is arranged that Mack is to go home on the train with a party of friends.

They see her safely off and then hurry off to lighten their respective rigs as much as possible and see that the horses are in good shape. A third friend is taken into their confidence and acts as starter. Just before they leave, this young man takes Vaughn aside and whispers:

"Look out for Dalton. He looks ugly and means mischief."

They set off, and now the agony begins. Dalton has the lightest buggy, but Vaughn has the best horse.

It is four miles from the track to Mack's house. Two of them have been covered and the third pretty well gone over. The horses and their drivers are straining every nerve.

Vaughn believes now he can win with Mack in any case, for he remembers vividly the close hand-clasp and the last look she gave him as she wished him good-speed.

But he wants to show her that he is willing to do as much for her as any one else, and he also wants to show Dalton that he has the best horse, in spite of that young man's sneers to the contrary.

Up to this time they have kept side by side, but now Vaughn begins to give his horse the rein, and suddenly he shoots a neck ahead of the other. Dalton sees, and grows pale with rage and anxiety.

He has proposed this race because he feels that if he wins Mack at all it will have to be by stratagem, and he has determined to win both her and the race by fair means or foul.

He knows that Vaughn never carries a whip, because his high spirited horse will brook neither the sound nor the touch of one, and knowing this he deliberately stands up in his buggy, grasps the handle of his long whip, sends it whizzing through the air and brings it down with cruel force across the back of Vaughn's horse.

The outraged beast gives one mad, horrible snort and rears straight up in the air. Vaughn sits pale and angry, trying his best to quiet the maddened creature.

The moments are flying, and so is Dalton. At last Vaughn succeeds in bringing his horse's feet down to the ground. A few more soothing words and the intelligent animal, responding to the well-known voice, flies forward like an arrow.

Vaughn then looks ahead and sees a queer sight. In trying to cross a car track the wheel of Dalton's buggy had in some way become entangled with the rails, and he cannot move.

In vain he shouts and swears. It is all to no purpose. Retribution has overtaken him, and he is forced to remain where he is, while his rival's buggy rolls past him as swiftly and smoothly as a magic bicycle.

In a short time Vaughn is at the home of his little love and has turned his panting, victorious horse over to his friends to be cared for while he goes into the house to claim his well-earned reward.

Instead of flying into his outstretched arms, Mack calmly takes one hand and leads him to a mirror.

Can that disreputable object be the immaculate young widower? His hat is gone, and every individual hair is standing straight on his head; his face is besmeared with perspiration and several layers of dust; his clothes are torn and covered with dust, and altogether he is a remarkable sight.

After he has duly surveyed himself he turns once more to Mack. "I am going to wash up," he says, "and when I return I have a question to ask of you. Will you listen?"

But Mack does not answer. She has discovered that the hand she holds is cut and bleeding, and all her sauciness has left her.

Looking down into the misty brown eyes Vaughn sees that which tells him his answer will be to his liking.—Boston Globe.

Brander Matthews, the delightful essayist, seems to have passed from a life of literary luxury to one of actual toil. He has become an associate editor of the Cosmopolitan under W. D. Howells, and he has just been elected professor of literature in Columbia college. "It has taken Mr. Matthews," says a New York correspondent, "some fifteen years to discover that he writes much more charmingly about plays and playwrights, both French and those using the English language, than he ever wrote when making a play himself, and that he is a more delightful critic even than he is a writer of stories, although some of his short tales have been quite acceptable. Mr. Matthews does not need to work, for he possesses a comfortable income, but he has discovered that he is far more happy when diligent in his literary business than when leading the life of a literary luxuriant."

LEGITIMATE LYING.

The Gleaner of Facts at a Discount in Literature.

How can we expect the globe-trotter to maintain his habitual chatty liveliness and his normal high spirits if we are to look into every statement that he makes to see if it is consistent with strict veracity? asks the London Telegraph. It is not given to everybody to be both humorous and truthful, to eschew mendacity, and yet be altogether readable. As a rule, we know that the "adventures" which a traveler meets with nowadays are principally connected with such matters as being charged too much at a hotel, having unpleasant traveling companions, or running short of soap.

The stock of pirates is now lamentably deficient and needs replenishing, while desert islands are thought nothing of nowadays unless they have untold wealth concealed somewhere about their rocky caverns. Big game is decreasing, and modern weapons are so deadly that even the pursuit of elephants and tigers has lost something of its excitement when it has been deprived of most of its danger.

Under these circumstances, what is the globe-trotter to do if he wishes to write a book for the delectation of his friends at home? They, to be sure, will be quite satisfied with a diary setting forth what the eminent traveler had for supper at Cairo, and for breakfast on landing at Bombay, with similar revelations; but for the outside public something more suited to a jaded literary appetite is required.

So the only thing to do is to assume an adventure if we have it not, and to weave into our narrative all the pretty incidents that might have been, but, as a matter of fact, did not happen. This sort of thing, no doubt, requires doing well, or it had better not be attempted at all. The ordinary volume published by a person who has enjoyed a foreign trip is dull enough and stale enough to merit the severest remarks by unsympathetic critics.

To call the authors "barefaced liars" is hardly, perhaps, the happiest method of expressing their literary shortcomings; they are twaddlers and bores, nothing worse. Their leading idea is that nobody before themselves has ever voyaged on a steamer from London or Southampton across the Bay of Biscay, through the Mediterranean, and down the Suez canal.

Consequently, all these have to be accurately and minutely described. That it is sandy in the desert, that it is hot in the Red Sea, and that Gibraltar stands out boldly when seen from a certain angle, are the kind of novel and inspiring themes which form the staple of the usual book of travel.

No wonder that the gorge of the critic occasionally rises at it, or that he should be carried away in temporary transports of wrath at being called upon to read, and enjoy, such stale rubbish.

ALL OVER NEW ENGLAND.

A Connecticut Doctor's Bicycle the Cause of an Interesting Suit.

The interesting question as to whether a bicycle used by a physician as a means of conveyance to reach his patients can be attached for debt will soon be brought up for an airing in the courts by Dr. John W. Melbourne of this city. The general statutes provide that a physician's horse, harness, saddle and buggy shall be exempt from attachment. Now, the question that arises is whether this law also applies to a bicycle, when a doctor uses the bicycle as a means of facilitating access to his patients. It would seem that the intent of the law was to have it apply to all objects of conveyance that a doctor might use in reaching his patients. A strictly literal interpretation of the law, however, would not include the bicycle.

The question arose in the recent trial of the suit brought by Joseph Wilkinson, the bicycle dealer, against Dr. Melbourne, for repairs which the plaintiff made on the bicycle of the defendant. The case was tried before Justice Doten, and the plaintiff was awarded the full amount of his claim, $49.50, and costs. The doctor had been using the bicycle as his only means of travel to his patients, and, being unable to pay the judgment, the wheel was ordered sold on a writ of execution.

Now the doctor maintains that Wilkinson had no right to attach the bicycle under the statutes relating to the exemption from attachment of physicians' conveyances. Attorney Nobbs, representing the doctor, will bring the matter into court again soon on a writ of trespass, and carry it, if necessary, to the supreme court for a final decision.—Bridgeport Farmer.

THE KHEDIVE STOPPED.

Tewfik, in His Haroun Alraschid Rambles, Is Talked To.

The khedive, oddly enough for an Oriental, did not smoke, with the result that the palace cigarette—invariably handed round with coffee—were notoriously the worst in Cairo, and except in the case of absolute strangers it was ludicrous to see how tobacco was avoided in his presence. He always carried a cigarette case, however, and delighted in offering it and little presents of money to the English sentries placed on guard around his palace when first Cairo was occupied by the British troops. He loved to tell stories of his experience with these guards.

An early riser, he was in the habit of either beginning his reading of official reports or walking in his garden in the cool sunrise hour. One morning, returning to the palace from a walk in the gardens of Ghizireh, he was stopped by a sentry.

"Yer can't go in 'ere, yer know," said the man of war, with the Briton's amiable contempt for the fat little "furiner."

"But I belong to the palace," faltered the Khedive, delighted.

"Oh, do yer? Got a good place?"

"Very good," said Tewfik, diffidently.

"Ah, yer look like it. Bustin' times, I suppose. Nothing to do and plenty to eat. I wouldn't mind serving under your master. Would he stand six shillings a day? What sort of a feller is he?"

And then, alas! the sergeant coming round recognized and saluted the khedive, to the vast discomfort of Thomas Atkins and to the chagrin of his highness, who would fain have heard more about himself, and who probably had never received a more sincere offer of service.—Blackwood's Magazine.

SARGEANT-HADLEY.

The Marriage of the Couple at Grand Rapids, Mich.

One of the Most Beautiful Weddings of the Season—Full Account of the Event.

Thursday's Grand Rapids Herald prints the following account of the Sargeant-Hadley wedding at St. Mark's church in that city on Wednesday, which will no doubt be read with interest by friends in Toledo:

Yesterday morning at St. Mark's church there was a quiet and happy wedding, the central figures being Mr. George Gardner Hadley, jr., of Toledo, and Miss Pearl Belle Sargeant, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Campbell Fair at 10 o'clock and the beautiful Episcopal ritual was used with the ceremony of the double rings. There was a large attendance of invited guests. Mr. Lucius L. Sargeant, brother of the bride, responded to the call, "Who gives this woman away?" Miss Lillie Swartz was maid of honor and Mr. W. W. Waldron, of Lafayette, Ind., was the groom's best man. The ushers were Messrs. Lyle Hubbard, of Toledo, and Leo P. H. Fisher, of this city. Mrs. T. B. Church presided at the organ, and the advent of the wedding party was heralded by the glorious strains of the bridal march from Lohengrin, and during the sacred ceremony the sweet notes of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin were wafted softly from the great musical pipes. The bride wore a brown imported traveling gown, trimmed with a ruche of ribbon and a broad-brimmed lace hat. She carried a fragrant cluster of half-open bride roses tied with white satin ribbon in a pretty arrangement of loops and ends. Miss Swartz wore a gown of red crepe with a hat of the same bright color. She carried an immense stalk of pure white lilies, the reflexed petals contrasting brilliantly with the vivid color of her dress. After the exchange of the solemn vows the bridal party passed slowly down the aisle and out of the church followed by the joyous notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Carriages were taken to the pretty and artistic home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. R. Buss, No. 171 Paris avenue, where a delicate wedding breakfast was served by Caterer Swetland.

The decorations were exquisite. Massed in the parlors were the snowy blossoms of bride roses, carnations, Bermuda lilies, hydrangeas and the sweet lily of the valley. Tropical foliage in the form of palms, pines, ferns and glossy-leaved rubber plants abounded. Fringing smilax draped in chandeliers and curtains and the soft refulgence of many colored lights enveloped the scene, which was one of gayety and beauty. Green-leaved plants stood in cozy nooks about the hall, which was lighted with green tapers.

In the dining room a table heavily ladened with flowers and other sweets was set for forty guests. At either end stood a candelabra and the cloth was covered with sprays of smilax with roses laid here and there. At one end pink roses were massed; at the opposite end there was a handsome spray of white carnations. A tall and graceful arrangement of pink and white roses occupied the center and sprays of roses, smilax, carnations and lilies of the valley were effectively draped about the sideboard. The guests at the breakfast were: Mr. and Mrs. G .G. Hadley, Sr., Mrs. Sargeant, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hadley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hadley, Mrs. Charles E. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pew, Mrs. Parmalee, Mrs. Tipple, Miss Nettie Van Deusen, Mr. Lyle Hubbard, and Mr. P. T. Craig, all of Toledo; Mr. W. W. Waldron, of Lafayette, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. William Barnard, formerly of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Buss and daughter Etta, C. Sargeant, Mrs. Fred D. Mills, Mrs. Albert Root, Miss Belle Chamberlain and Messrs. Leo Fisher, and Fred Powers.

A harpist rendered exquisite music throughout the breakfast hour, which was made merry with rejoicing until the departure of the bridal couple on an eastern wedding trip. Gifts most dainty and valuable were received from far and near in great profusion and abundance, among them being a house and lot from the groom's father, diamond pendant for the bride from the groom's mother, five beautiful oil paintings from the bride's mother, beside a complete array of silver cut glass, bric-a-brac and china, with countless articles in addition. There are also many large and beautiful gifts awaiting them at Toledo. The bride's souvenir to her maid was a love-knot ring, and the groom presented to his best man and ushers dainty enameled hearts.

As the happy couple descended the steps of the residence to enter the carriage for their departure they were showered with rice, and other emblems of a happy and successful future greeted them. Arrived at the train they found their seats in the car decorated with bride roses, and a parting shower of rice fell upon them. They left on the 1 o'clock train for Detroit and the east, and will visit Boston, New York and other eastern points, making an extended trip before returning to Toledo, where they will reside for a time.

Extensive improvements are being made in the Hadley residence in Toledo, which will be completed by early September, when a reception will be given the young couple, who will reside with Mr. Hadley's parents until they desire to take possession of their own home.

The bride is one of the sweetest, fairest daughters of the Valley city, and her departure is regarded by an extensive circle as a personal loss. She is both beautiful and accomplished and will grace the high position the bridegroom's family occupy in the select circles of Toledo. The groom is an only son—an only child—a young man of sterling worth, and is a great favorite in Toledo. Congratulations, sincere and ardent, may be showered upon both bride and groom, and their friends in this city will unite in desiring for them the sunny side of the road while upon life's journey, with just enough of shade to enhance the sunshine.

Mr. and Mrs. Hadley, sr., with their party of guests, will return to Toledo in their private car this morning.

TO SLAY OR TO BE SLAIN. WHICH?

To attack the dragon of disease and annihilate him before his deadly talons grow, or to allow him to attain dangerous maturity and destroy us—that is the question of paramount importance to all afflicted with organic ailments. Among these, disorders of the kidneys and bladder are of the fatal order if unrestrained at the outset. Their growth is rapid, their culmination death. Bright's disease, ordinary nephritis, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, gravel, suppression of the secretion, cannot be tampered with or disregarded safely. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a superb depurative tonic, giving the due impulse, without excitation to the renal organs, besides strengthening and regulating them in common with the rest of the system. It infuses, too, vigor and regularity into the stomach, bowels and liver, successfully counteracts malaria and rheumatism, and is a pre-eminently fine tonic for the aged, the enfeebled and the convalescent.

CANNOT CHANGE IT.

Chicago, May 20.—The World's fair committee on ceremonies decided yesterday that it dould not be advisable to ask congress to change the date of the dedication ceremonies of the Columbian exposition from October 12 to 21, as it would cause too much confusion in the arrangements already perfected.

AN OLD-FASHIONED PARSON.

The convivial habit of the Scotch clergy of sixty to a hundred years ago were then thought not at all inconsistent with their cloth and their profession of sanctity. An old Scotch lady who formerly lived in Cornwall, Canada, recently gave this account of the minister under whom she had sat at home in her youth: "Ou, aye, weel do I mind Mr. Douglas. He wasna yin of thae latter-day kind that canna tak a wee drappie. Mony's the time I've seen him gaun' along the street where I lived a' better for what he didna carry just to say verra straightly. The auld wives would come out of their doors and put their arms so (akimbo) and look at him hirplin' alang and say: 'Ou, aye, there goes Mr. Douglas. He's gey fou' the day, the guid, piuos old meenister,' "—Boston Transcript.

COUNCIL COMMITTEES.

Regular Weekly Meeting at the Municipal Chamber.

The Electric Street Railway Tracks—Bad Job of Pole Raising—Other Legislation Suggested for Adoption.

Several council committees met last evening and handled considerable business, but the most of it consisted of matters that have long been hanging fire and were left over by the previous board.

The street committee held the longest session, and the first matter brought before it was the bad condition of the electric street railway tracks on Summit street. Messrs. P. S. Dowling, Frank Roff and Joseph Popp were present, and on behalf of the liverymen and other owners of horses asked that the council take some action looking to a remedy. Every day many horses are shocked and even thrown down on Summit street, and a large number of runaways have thus been caused, making it dangerous to drive on the street.

On motion of Mr. Hodge the city solicitor was instructed to prepare an ordinance requiring the street railway company to remedy the evil.

Hon. C. P. Griffin then appeared in behalf of the property owners on Ashland avenue and called the attention of the committee to the fact that poles are being placed along the street, and in setting them the drain pipe is broken. "These poles are being put up by the telephone company," said Mr. Griffin, "but they are to hold the trolley wires of the electric street railway company. Wherever a pole is put in, the drain pipe on the side of the street is broken, and as there is no sewer in the street the drainage of the street is destroyed."

The matter was referred to a subcommittee consisting of Messrs. Rutherford, Hassenzahl and Schmuhl, who with the city engineer and the solicitor will investigate.

Ordinances were approved to pave Fulton street with asphalt, 28 feet wide, from Bancroft street to Webster street, and to pave Maplewood avenue with asphalt, 28 feet wide, from Virginia street to Delaware avenue.

A resolution was approved to grade Woodruff avenue from Union street to Beacon street.

A resoultion was also approved to pave Webster street from Collingwood avenue to Cherry street.

A resolution to pave Knower street was laid over for two weeks.

The engineer was instructed to prepare an ordinance for the vacation of alleys in Springrove addition.

A communication from property owners along Summit street, from Magnolia to Stickney avenue, was read, asking that the railroad company be required to put in a retaining wall on the east side of the street, as the continued caving in of the embankment has destroyed the sidewalk bed in many places and endangered the new asphalt pavement on the street. The matter was referred to the city solicitor with instructions to draw up the necessary legislation.

A resolution was approved to pave Nebraska avenue from Elizabeth street to Junction avenue.

The legislation to pave Speilbusch avenue was laid over for two weeks.

A petition was presented for the opening of the alley between Dorr and Hicks streets from Wheeler to Groesbeck street, but it was laid over for two weeks.

Resolutions were approved to turnpike Nevada street from the Belt railway to the city line and to turnpike Pratt street from the Belt railway to the city line. An ordinance was also approved to turnpike Enright street from Comstock avenue to Ketcham avenue.

Other resolutions were approved to pave Putnam street with asphalt, 26 feet wide, from Adams street to Machen street, and to grade McDonald street from Germania street to Forrer.

* * *

The committee on harbor, commerce and bridges discussed the matter of bridges over railway tracks and approved a resolution requesting the Lake Shore railway company to construct iron bridges over their tracks at Broadway, Maumee avenue and Field avenue.

Messrs. Swain, Huberich and Manchester were also appointed a sub-committee to confer with the railroad company in the matter.

The committee also decided to dredge the river from Adams street to Perry, and between the Wabash elevator and Mitchell & Rowland's dock.

* * *

The sidewalk committee provided for some new walks and the sewer committee approved a resolution for a sewer in Wabash street, from Fifteenth to Division streets.

AN INJUSTICE.

"Did you say to Mrs. Jones that I was a perfect brute around the house?" asked a traveling man of his wife.

"No, my dear; I certainly did not. How could you think it possible."

"I believe you. I'm glad to find that gossip has lied in this case, as usual."

"You should not have entertained such a thought for a moment," she said, whimperingly.

"Darling, forgive me; it is all over. Yet you cannot blame me. I had it from an excellent source."

"But haven't you learned by this time that I never tell family secrets?"—Texas

USING EVERYTHING.

The use of bye-products from factories of various kinds is constantly on the increase. Glycerine was first obtained as a waste from soap factories, while the coal tar-bye-products furnish us with all the aniline dyes; now the breweries promise to supply liquid carbon dioxide at about one-sixth of the present price. Thus the beer factory can turn out the alcoholic beverage for those who prefer it and draw soda-water to quench the thirst of the prohibitionist.—Meyers' Druggist.

As illustrative of the growth of travel by the use of electricity as a motive power, it is stated that the electric railway between East Liverpool and Wellsville, O., has doubled its equipment in five months.

HE HAD BETTER PROPOSE AT ONCE.

I know, my friend,
We never have been lovers, but when we
Of these sweet summer hours shall find the end,
And there shall be,
A courteous close to all our pleasant speech;
When you go out into the hurrying crowd,
To battle with a warrior iron-browed,
For all the worldly blessings which you claim,
Wealth, power and fame,
Things which I do not crave and cannot reach;
I wonder if your heart will be the same,
Will beat as even and as tranquilly
Away from me?
If, when you find your separate life once more,
'Twill be as whole and happy as before!

It may be so.
Ambition has broad leaves, which overgrow
The feebler heart-plants, booming small and low,
And yet, I think,
When time, or change, or both, have snapped the link
Which holds us ne'er so lightly heart to heart,
When you have found out new and pleasant ways
From these apart,
Have loved fair women and have known great men,
Perhaps grown great yourself, and tasted praise,
Despite the rosy ties which bind you, then,
You will look back to these tame, quiet days
With dim, strange pain;
And happy in your dreaming think of me
Half mournfully,
Saying, while all surrounding witcheries
Seem dull and vain,
And beauty's smile, and flattery's ministries,
Lose, for the time, their hold on heart and brain,
"Ah, me! how little she was like to these!
Would I could look upon that face again!"

Last year 22,080 patents were issued, nearly twice as many as were granted during the first 50 years of the patent office.

Prince Khilkoff, a Russian "Stundist," who distributed his large estates among poor peasants and led a life of poverty and toil for ten years in the government of Khorkoff, has been banished to Transcaucasia, without trial or inquiry, by order of the minister of the interior on the suggestion of M. Pobiedonestseff, the head of the orthodox church. His offense is that during public discussion between a Russian priest and some peasant nonconformists he took the part of the latter, replying to the priest's objections by quoting texts from the gospels.

The Russians call the grip Chinese catarrh, the Germans call it the Russian pest, the Italians name it the German disease, the French call it the Italian fever and the Spanish catarrh. The Italians invented the terms in the seventeenth century and attributed the disease to the influence of certain planets.

Edward Eggleston pays a deserved tribute to the worth of the late Roswell Smith. He makes this striking observation: "Every man has his limitations and Mr. Smith's were apparent. He was by nature restricted to large undertakings." That seems an interesting sort of limitation.

It is said that the gearless motor, for use on electric roads, is rapidly coming to the front. Two strong points in favor of the gearless type of motor are claimed to be increased efficiency and decreased expense of operation.

RUBIES AND PEARLS.

All I had to give I gave her. First my kisses, then my tears.
But the little one would have them not. "What use are they?" she said.
Sad, I went away, and dwelt among the tombs, where days are years,
With the Witch that gathers herbs there, and the children who are dead.

They and I became companions; and their dusty shrouds were wet
With my flowing tears, and warm beneath my kiss their white lips burn'd,
Till the Witch, whose graveyard-gatherings rare miracles beget,
Wrought my kisses into rubies, and my tears to pearls she turn'd.

But she drain'd into each ruby's heart from mine a drop of blood,
And a purity my spirit lost from every pearl that fell.
Then she laugh'd, "Good pearls thy tears are now, thy kisses rubies good,
And the proper use of precious stones thy little one knows well."

So I took my pearls and rubies to the little one I love,
She that loves me not. And, when her pretty eyes beheld them, wild
Beat her little heart with eagerness its pride [illegible]
Still she wears them, still she shows them to if one of them were lost;
For the sweetest of its pleasures is the envy they excite,
And 'tis spoilt by no suspicion of the price that they have cost.
—Lord Lytton's Posthumous Poem.

DOCTORS FRANCE AND OTTMAN,

Formerly of New York, now the Celebrated Examining Physicians of THE FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, have decided to visit Toledo

Dr. Ottman, Saturday, May 21.

Dr. France, Thursday, June 9.

Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

The doctors describe the different diseases better than the sick can themselves. It is a wonderful gift for any one to possess. Their diagnostic powers have created wonders throughout the country.

The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the State incorporated with a Capital of $300,000.00.

DR. OTTMAN, the Celebrated Examining Surgeon of the

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,

38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession.

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE. Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

WHEAT IS ON THE CLIMB

Some Rain and Snow in the North

Has Had Its Effect in the Pits.

Active Trading in Toledo—Market Quotations from all Over the World.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 77,814 bus and at five other western points 83,877 bus. The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 221,140 bus and flour to an aggregate of 340,000 bus. Exports of corn 70,804 bus and of oats 21,294 bus. English markets are stronger and in some deals higher for wheat and corn.

Are Late and Present Prices of Wheat too Hih?—The winter wheat crop of this country is stated by current authorities as doing well. That is rather a flippant way of disposing of a great question. Of course a good proportion of it may be thus described. But a large acreage has been entirely destroyed, and other large areas are under water and not likely to produce an average crop.

Making proper allowances for these losses, and for decreased aggregate acreage sown, and the low conditon of the crop in the great wheat states May 1st, and the conviction is inevitable that our production of winter wheat must be greatly deficient as compared with last year, and, without the most favorable conditions, from now to harvest the result cannot be an average compared to years previous to the last.

So far as the spring wheat crop is concerned, the question is no longer a speculative one. No weather conditions can now prevail that will ensure an acreage sown that will mature a crop of more than 75 or 80 per cent. of last year's area.

The English area in wheat is far less than last year, and the crop is late.

On the continent France has a deficient acreage and a promise of late harvests, while no country promises an abundant yield. These conditions present the question whether about 85c for July wheat in Toledo is dear wheat.

The Markets To-day.

Reports of rain in the west and snow and freezing in the northwest have been the leading factors in the markets for wheat and corn to-day and prices are decidedly higher. These reports are supplemented by stronger English markets, as reported herein, which is the first reflection abroad of any late advance on this side.

The reports from the corn fields are discouraging. Only a limited area has been planted and what is planted is rotting in the ground. No increase in planting can be expected until after days of dry weather.

Liverpool closes spot wheat upward tendency, corn firm. Futures higher.

The stocks named were the only ones that recorded any fluctuations of moment. The remainder of the list changed only fractionally. Prices were irregular throughout and at noon were slightly changed in most instances. Manhattan, Sugar trust and Cordage trust showed exceptional strength and advanced sharply. Hocking Valley and Nor. Pac. pfd. were weak and declined sharply but the latter recovered most of the decline by noon. At this writing the market is dull. Sales amounted to 169,000 shares.

PLEADING FOR HIS LIFE.

Jacob Harvey Follows Van Loon's Example.

He Writes a Letter to the Governor Hoping Thereby to Have His Sentence Commuted to Life Imprisonment.

Columbus, May 20.—Since Van Loon made an appeal intended for Gov. McKinley, a new hope arose in the breast of Jacob Harvey, the first one of the murderers, to hang June 24.

No sooner had Van Loon sent his message out than Harvey made a request to Warden James for paper and permission to write. All day he labored over the communication, and delivered it into the hands of the prison officials, but it is not known whether Gov. McKinley has yet received it yet or not.

Since Van Loon's letter was published the prison officials have taken great care that nothing should be said about Harvey having put the same plan into execution and to keep the matter away from the newspapers. A correspondent, however, learned the true contents of the letter. Harvey, since the supreme court ruled against him, has almost given up hope, and what makes the situation so unbearable is that no communication has been received either from his brother or attorney.

As a last hope he concluded to appeal to Gov. McKinley for one brief interview in the hopes of having his sentence at least commuted to life imprisonment. The appeal is couched in pitiful terms and while not absolutely denying his guilt, the murderer makes particular the point that the case was an aggravated one. He killed his mistress last September. Harvey was plainly given to understand that but little hope should be entertained for executive interfenence, and it is hardly probable that Gov. McKinley will grant him the requested interview. The murderer is weakening rapidly.

A LEGAL TANGLE.

Morrow County Must Pay the Costs in the Gaw Case.

Columbus, O., May 20—A most unusual case came before Auditor of State E. W. Poe for disposal. It was brought down by Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Barry, of Morrow county, in the nature of a cost bill amounting to $1,675.87 for the prosecution of Lorenzo Gaw, the celebrated wife murderer, who suicided in the Morrow county jail a few hours before he was to be conveyed to the "annex" of the penitentiary.

The death was very unfortunate for the Morrow county residents, for the auditor refused to pay these costs, having no warrant from the penitentiary warden that the prisoner had been received after being sentenced. This complication reacts on Morrow county, which must stand all of the expenses, since it cannot be made a state case.

CATARRH SUFFERERS.

Here is Something of Interest to You.

Chronic catarrh is, by far, the most prevalent disease in the United States, at least one person out of every three is in some degree affected by it. Probably the most common seat of this disease is in some part of the air passages, viz., nose, throat, larynx, bronchial tubes, and lungs. Chronic catarrh, however, is by no means confined to these parts; for the stomach, bowels, kidneys, and pelvic organs are frequently affected by it.

The treatment for chronic catarrh, wherever located, consists of, first, local treatment, which includes gargles, sprays, douches, inhalants, snuff, creams, suppositories and atomized fluids. These remedies are useful only as palliatives. They can never effect a permanent cure.

The treatment of catarrh consists, second, of the proper regulations of food and drink, and is a very important item in the treatment of any case.

The third item in the tretment of catarrh, is the regulation of the bodily habits, as to clothing, exercise, cleanliness and sleep.

The fourth and most important item, without which all other efforts will be fruitless, is the proper internal medication. The only medicine which can always be relied upon to do this work is Pe-ru-na. This medicine can now be obtained at nearly all the drug stores in the United States, accompanied by complete directions for use.

Anyone desiring to become acquainted with the details of the treatment of catarrh in each of the four items above enumerated, should write the Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co. of Columbus, Ohio, for a copy of The Family Physician No. 2. This book also gives cause and cure of la grippe, coughs, colds, bronchitis and consumption. Sent free to any address for a limited time.

THE BALL STARTED

For the Formation of a Real Estate Exchange.

Preliminary Meeting at the Boody House Last Night—Decision to Incorporate—Meeting To-night.

The local real estate dealers met at the Boody house last evening, and took the initial step looking to the organization of a real estate board.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock, and Mr. H. S. Walbridge was elected presiding officer.

Mr. Walbridge addressed the meeting, briefly noting the necessity of an organization of the kind in Toledo; of the good that can be accomplished by real estate dealers, and citizens generally, uniting their forces and working for the welfare and prosperity of Toledo first, and individual interests second.

Mr. Pomeroy then introduced J. C. Bartholf, secretary of the Milwaukee board, who made quite an interesting talk on the object and manner of conducting a real estate board. He called attention to the National association and its purposes. The object of the national organization is to bring about a greater uniformity among real estate men, to bring them together in conference. By attending the annual meetings they mingle together, get thoroughly acquainted, and exchange views on all the details of the business. By this social intercourse those participating gain new ideas and learn new methods of conducting business. The real estate interest, he said, is the basis on which rests the prosperity and welfare of any community. Real estate men have under their control the most sacred trust reposed in man, the protection of homes and industry, and it is their duty to unite their forces to this end. They have accomplished wonders alone and divided. Real estate dealers, he said, have been greatly instrumental in the building up of the nation. It is their duty to organize and take advantage of the many opportunities of improvement at hand.

He spoke of the different methods of conveying real estate, as fixed by the laws of various states. In one state a wife must certify with her husband on the same instrument; another, she does not certify at all, and still another a separate instrument is required. Failure to conform with these different laws often casts a cloud upon the good title. The existence of so many different laws on this subject the country over causes no end of difficulty in transferring property by residents of different states. To obliterate this difficulty, and many others, he said, was among the objects of the National association. A committee would be appointed at the annual meeting at Buffalo, next fall, consisting of real estate men, lawyers and business men generally, to define and recommend a uniform system of conveying property. In this and the renovating and revising of many other laws could be accomplished by affiliation with the National Bar association and the National Builders' association.

He spoke of the success of the meeting at Nashville, and referred in a complimentary manner of Mr. H. H. Cushing, of Toledo, as being the only representative of Ohio present, who was also honored by the convention.

At the meeting to be held at Buffalo, the plan of utilizing the Niagara Falls, as motive power would be tested for first time. Speakers of national reputation will also address the assembly. It is expected that 2,500 real estate men will be present.

Speaking of a local board he said, the organization had two purposes. One is the benefit the city will derive; the other, the interest to the members individually. He explained the inside workings of a real estate board quite clearly. A room on the ground floor, in the most prominent locality of the city should be secured, the size of which should depend upon the membership of the board. A bulletin board should be suspended on one side of the room, on which to post listed sales, and another on the other side for auction sales. These boards should be divided into wards, and then sub-divided under three heads, viz.: business, residence and vacant property. Cards are distributed among the members, to be used in taking in property. On one side of the card is a contract from the owner to the agent giving exclusive possession of the property, the other the description of the property. In this way, no two dealers can offer the same piece of property. These cards are filled out and turned over to the secretary, who hangs them on the board. Another board is provided for the listing of property outside of the city.

The Milwaukee board issues a monthly bulletin, showing all the property listed. This is given to the members, who then have in their office a complete list of all the property on sale, which proves advantageous in selling as well as taking in property.

When Mr. Bartholf had concluded Mr. Pomeroy moved that the chair appoint a committee of nine to incorporate a board, which carried. After more discussion, the board adjourned to meet to-night at the same place to perfect the organization. The committee was instructed to meet at 11:30 to-day.

Chairman Walbridge appointed the following incorporating committee: Irving B. Hiett, H. H. Cushing, John S. Kountz, David Robison, Robison Locke, George E. Pomeroy and Frank I. King. Judge Doyle and the chair was included.

The committee met at the Boody house this morning and resolved to incorporate a board. Judge Doyle is drafting articles of incorporation which will be submitted at the meeting to-night.

RIOTING IN CLVELAND.

Two Gangs of Foreigners Clash in the Streets.

Cleveland, O., May 20.—A gang of Slav section hands employed by the Lake Shore railroad struck here Wednesday, and this morning their places were filled by a lot of Italians.

While the latter were at work, in the eastern part of the city, they were suddenly attacked by the strikers, who were armed with clubs and stones.

The Italians escaped as soon as possible by running, but not until two of them had been badly hurt. Philip Dombrozio, one of the Italians, is in a dangerous condition. No arrests have as yet been made.

UNCLE SAM'S DAILY.

Interesting Facts About the Publication of the Congressional Record.

The Congressional Record for the Fifty-second congress lately made its appearance. this official gazetteer of the proceedings of congress, says the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. Altogether, the publication makes more typesetting and presswork than half a dozen ordinary papers in the United States. It sometimes has from 100 to 125 pages of solid matter, which would make an octavo book of 400 to 500 pages. It requires an enormous amount of type to get out the Record. A new dress is procured at the beginning of about every congress—every four years, and sometimes every two years. A new dress means over 100 tons of type—many times more than there is in a dozen of the largest printing offices, including type of all grades.

About 12,000 copies are published. Each member of the house gets about 27 and each senator 40 copies daily. These they have mailed daily from the government printing office to those they wish to have them. Some of them are preserved and bound at the end of the session, all free of cost. A new dress of type for the Record costs in round figures $73,000. It costs probably $3,000 to $5,000 to give a first-class daily newspaper a new dress. The type came from the foundry in Chicago and filled 383 boxes, averaging a weight of 115 pounds.

The old type is sold at the best prices the public printer can get. It is usually about half worn when sold and ordinarily commands about five cents a pound more than the metal is worth. Many newspapers in the country have been given a new dress from the old dresses of the Congressional Record. A two-year-old dress of the Record is ordinarily not worn more than that used for twelve months in a country office, as there is so much in use here, and then everything is stereoptyped.

TO BRING OUT BLAINE.

Anti-Administration People Will Not Down.

Detroit, May 20.—The general opinion here is that the conference in Gen. Alger's mansion was decidedly anti-Harrison, although the general himself objects to the use of that term. He admitted, however, that the name of Blaine was often mentioned, and Clarkson said he would find out early next week, if possible, the final decision of the secretary of state relative to the use of his name as a presidential candidate.

Gen. Alger denies that any agreement whatever was reached, and Gen. Clarkson would say nothing about it.

The colored race does not increase rapidly in New England. Rhode Island is the only one of the New England states where the colored people were, in 1890 over 2 per cent of the population. It has, according to the census, fallen off from 2.49 per cent. of the population in 1850 to 2.21 per cent. in 1890. The census enumerators found 23,570 colored people in Massachusetts in 1890, 1,723 in Maine, 690 in New Hampshire, 1,004 in Vermont, 7,647 in Rhode Island, and 12,820 in Connecticut.

CURIOUS OUTFIT.

Among the curiosities in the Maine state prison is a dress that one of the prisoners, who attempted to escape recently, had made as a disguise. At different times the man, who worked in the carriage-trimming shop, secreted small bits of flannel, which he sewed together, from which he fashioned a most remarkable gown, with a big bow at the back by way of adornment. The buttons were made from harness trimmings and bits of leather. He also made a hat. The whole outfit, with a razor, chalk for face powder, and a 30-foot ladder, made of waxed ends, was found in the man's cell.

Ladies who wear medium and dark gray dress goods often have difficulty in finding goods to please them. We are showing an unusually large line of Oxford Grey Goods in plain and fancy styles.

The Austrians are experimenting with a new rifle, novel in not having its repeating system underneath nor alongside the barrel, but in the barrel itself; the snap of a small lever empties the magazine. It can be loaded as an ordinary non-repeating rifle. It is understood that experiments on a large scale are about to be made with it.

ANGELS IN HARD LINES.

Chicago, May 19.—The disciples of Dr. Cyrus W. Teed, otherwise known as Koresh, this morning applied to Chief of Police McClaughrey for protection against the residents of Normal park, whom they accuse of an intention to mob and tar and feather the "angels" of Teed's "heaven."

The chief believes there is no danger of mobbing, but ordered Inspector Hunt, of the Hyde park district to keep a close watch and see that no violence is attempted.

Garfield Tea corrects evils of over-eating and restores to health the liver, kidneys and bowels.

THE MODERN SCHOOL TEACHER.

It was Saturday night, and a teacher sat
Alone, her task pursuing;
She averaged this and she averaged that
Of all her class was doing.
She reckoned percentage, so many boys,
And so many girls are counted—
And marked all the tardy and absentees
And to what all the absence amounted.

Names and residences wrote in full,
Over many columns and pages;
Canadian, Teutonic, African, Celt,
And averaged all their ages,
The rate of admission to every one,
And cases of flagellation,
And prepared a list of graduates,
For the county examination.

Her weary head sank low on her book,
And her weary heart still lower,
For some of her pupils had little brains,
And she could furnish no more.
She slept, she dreamed; it seemed she died,
And her spirit went to Hades,
And they met her there with a question fair,
"State what per cent of your grade is?"

Ages had slowly rolled away,
Leaving but partial traces;
And the teacher's spirit walked one day
In the old familiar places.
A mound of fossilized school reports
Attracted her observation—
As high as State House dome, and as wide
As Boston since annexation.

She came to the spot where they buried her bones,
And the ground was well built over;
But the laborers digging threw up a skull,
One planted beneath the clover.
A disciple of Galen wandering by,
Paused to look at the diggers;
And plucked the skull up, looked through the eye
And saw that 'twas lined with figures.

"Just as I thought," said the young M. D.,
"How easy it is to tell 'em!"
Statistics classified, every fold
"Of cerebrum and cerebellum."
"It's a great curiosity, sure," said Pat,
"By the bones you can tell the creature!"
"O, nothing strange," said the doctor, "that
Was a nineteenth-century teacher."

"JUGGLERS."

A great many people have an antipathy against traveling physicians, but Drs. France & Ottman, of the France Medical Institute, who have visited your city for the past year, cannot be classed with the numerous traveling doctors who make a visit to a town and never return. They make regular and continued visits as long as their patients require their services.

The doctors, by their courteous manner and candid dealing with their patients, have secured a good practice here, and are succeeding well in bringing relief to the afflicted, where so many pretenders have failed. The doctors came well recommended as physicians of true merit and gentlemen of high moral worth, ever ready and prompt to fulfill their obligations, setting a noble example to the many wandering jugglers calling themselves doctors. Those wishing to consult the best skilled specialists of the country, should improve the opportunity.

Drs. France & Ottman, formerly of New York, now of The France Medical and Surgical Institute, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, have decided to visit Toledo, Saturday, May 21. Consultation and examination free and strictly confidential in the private parlor of the Burnett House, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

A WORD OF WARNING.

A pretty girl, as compared with a homely one, is generally at a disadvantage; for, relying entirely on her pretty face, she forgets to cultivate the graces of mind and body that the homely one finds absolutely necessary. The result is that often she can neither talk, play, nor sing, nor exert herself in any way to be pleasant, and sometimes even does not know how to dress well: while her friend, who has not beauty to rely on, has learned to make herself agreeable in many ways. However, a beautiful face is always attractive, and, when combined with any thought or feeling, is doubly so. But pretty girls cannot afford to be so much lazier than the other ones—Philadelphia Times.
